YANKS BEAT PIRATES SECOND TIME

PITTSBURGH TAKES FIELD SECOND TIME STILL OPTIMISTIC

Pirates Think Curve Ball Pitching Can Stop Yanks

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 6.—One down to the New York Yankees in the World Series but not at all discouraged, the Pittsburgh Pirates today were grimly determined to square accounts with the Yanks at Forbes Field this afternoon. With that objective in view Manager Donie Bush indicated he would send the veteran Vic Aldridge in to pitch against Babe Ruth and the other New York sluggers. John Gooch probably will catch Aldridge.

George Pipgras and Pat Collins will undoubtedly be the battery for the Yankees, Manager Miller Huggins announced.

Neither Manager Bush or the Pirates were discouraged by the 5 to 4 defeat of the Pirates in the opening game before 41,467 fans. "I think it will be one victory apiece by nightfall," Bush declared this morning. "I think our pitchers can stop the Yanks."

The strategy of the Pittsburgh pitchers now seems to be to "curve ball" the Yankee sluggers. Almost two out of three balls so far thrown to the Yanks have been curves and while Pittsburgh came out on the wrong end of the score yesterday the Yanks were able to make only six hits, three of them by Ruth, all singles. The Pirates got nine hits. The Pittsburgh club is now convinced that the Yanks do not like curves.

But the Yanks think otherwise. "It won't be long now," said Ruth this morning. "I feel 'hot.' I've got to hit some longer ones but I'm not kicking on those singles I made. I like Kremer's pitching. My first two hits clicked just right and I would have got another off Kremer the third time up, I think, if I hadn't slipped as I was swinging."

Ruth praised the Waner brothers Lloyd and Paul, as "a couple of good ball players," adding: "They sure popped a few out my way."

Joe Harris, Pirate's first baseman, expressed the general sentiment of the Pittsburgh team when he said: "Any team that gets five runs on six hits is mighty lucky. Aside from Ruth, we had those heavy hitters stopped in their tracks. Kremer will get better support next time and he'll know better how to pitch to Ruth."

Ray Kremer, the Pirate's pitching ace, was greatly disappointed at his showing but said he expect-

CHRISTIAN FORCED TO CONFESS CHRIST TO EARN SALVATION

Dr. Biederwolf Heard By Football Squad Wednesday Night

"A professed Christian has to acknowledge Jesus if he expects to enter the portals of heaven. There is no half way proposition to acknowledging Jesus. Every man or woman has to be either for Him or against Him. The greatest business in the world is the business of getting right with God."

In making these statements, Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, evangelist at the First M. E. Church pointed out that salvation was the only way to his Wednesday evening audience, when he talked on "Confessing Christ." The subject was based on Romans 10th chapter and ninth verse, "Because if thou shall confess with thy mouth Jesus as Lord, and shalt believe in thy heart that God raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved."

"Every man right or wrong should have the courage to stand up for what he or she believes to be right. Some men are proud of being members of certain organizations, and do not hesitate to

GRAND JURY RETURNS ONLY TWO INDICTMENTS AFTER TWO DAYS

Reports True Bills Against Mont Smallwood And Sanford Miller—Ignores Cornelius Shooting Case.

Two indictments were returned by the October grand jury, which made a complete report at 4:35 o'clock Wednesday afternoon after being in session two days.

Eleven cases were considered, forty witnesses were examined, two cases were referred to Juvenile Court, one case was transferred to Probate Court and six cases were ignored by the jury.

Indictments were returned against Mont Smallwood, Cedarville, on a charge of assault, and against Sanford Miller, colored, for larceny.

Miller was held to the grand jury August 16 on the larceny charge by J. E. Jones, justice of the peace, accused of stealing a load of corn containing forty bushels, valued at $44, from the farm of Bishop J. H. Jones, Wilberforce. Miller was employed as a farm hand.

Case of B. F. Miller, bound over from the court of Theodore Longenecker, Bath Twp., justice of the peace, on a charge of shooting Frank Creighton with intent to kill, June 18, was transferred to Probate Court. GEORGE REMUS MURDERS WIFE

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 6.—Climaxing several years of domestic strife and litigation with his wife, Mrs. Imogene Holmes Remus, 38, George Remus who gained nation-wide notoriety as "King of the Bootleggers," pulled his wife from a taxi cab in Eden Park here today shot and fatally wounded her, then surrendered to police. Mrs. Remus died at 10:45 a. m.

The dramatic climax to the Remus' domestic warfare came as Mrs. Remus was enroute to domestic relations court, where a hearing of her divorce petition against the former bootlegger, who served terms in the Atlanta federal penitentiary and later in the county jail at Troy, O., for violation of the prohibition laws, was scheduled this morning.

SUSPECT IN MURDER OF PHYSICIAN HELD AFTER LONG SEARCH

Poultry Dealer May Be Called Before Grand Jury

MAYS LANDING, Oct. 6.—Willis Beach, Vineland poultry dealer, sought on a warrant charging him with aiding and abetting in the murder of Dr. William Lilliendahl near here, three weeks ago, today surrendered to Captain William Carter of the state police here and was locked up in the Atlantic County Jail.

Prosecutor Louis I. Repetto said today he was not certain whether Beach would be called to testify before the grand jury, which will meet this afternoon to consider evidence in the case.

The prosecutor said he was equally uncertain whether Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, widow of the slain man, would be called to testify today, although she has been subpoenaed.

Captain Carter and two other members of the state police met Beach walking with his attorney, Edison Hedges, towards Mays Landing on the Weymouth Road.

After a brief conference between Carter and Hedges Beach was formally arrested on the warrant and taken to the county jail.

Beach had been missing for more than a week. State troopers and county detectives scoured the countryside for the elusive poultry dealer on a warrant issued soon after his disappearance from his Vineland home.

He disappeared on the day that three men from Morrisville, Pa., were to have faced him to say whether he was the man they saw driving a blue coupe out of Great Meadow near Hammonton, soon after Dr. Lilliendahl was shot and killed. Beach owns a blue coupe.

BABE FAILS HOME RUN LOVERS

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6.—Although he disappointed thousands of fans by failing to clout a home run after so nearly solving the slants of Ray Kremer and John Miljus, Pirate pitchers, as to get three hits, Babe Ruth, with Paul Waner, Pirate right-fielder, is today leading in World Series hitting, his percentage for the first game being .750.

This is something new for the Bambino. The records show his batting average for the seven big post season series he participated in prior to this year was .253.

Babe's record in other World Series:

	G.	AB.	R.	H.	Pct.
1915	1	1	0	0	.000
1916	1	5	0	0	.000
1918	3	5	0	1	.200
1921	6	16	3	5	.313

1923	6	19	8	7	.368
1926	7	20	6	6	.300

In the present series Ruth has been at bat four times, got three hits and scored two runs. In the first game he was not walked once.

LISBON, Oct. 6.—The German Junkers trans-Atlantic plane D 1230 which was forced down yesterday at Santa Cruz Beach, forty miles northwest of Lisbon, was not damaged, and the occupants were not injured, according to information received here this afternoon.

The plane was compelled to land by fog which made navigation difficult. One of the passengers is a woman—Lilly Dillenz—an Austrian actress.

The Portuguese destroyer Guadana was ordered to Santa Cruz Beach to aid the plane.

A report had been received earlier in the day that the plane was missing somewhere off Cape Roca and that three Portuguese warships were searching for it.

FANS LISTEN TO WORLD SERIES RADIO PARTY

Fans parked in the shade across the street, sat in automobiles or lingered in the warm rays of an October sun in front of the Gazette Bldg., Wednesday afternoon at the Gazette's radio party.

They listened to the opening game of the World Series, won by the New York Yankees 5 to 4 over the Pittsburgh Pirates, through the elaborate broadcasting arrangements made by this paper.

The play by play story of the game as told by Graham MacNamee, leading announcer, from his vantage point in the stands at Forbes Field, was received on a radio instrument in the editorial room of the Gazette and relayed through a giant horn with an RCA 104 loud-speaker, biggest volume producing instrument available.

The loud speaker increases the sound volume from the six tube receiving instrument so that any fan within reasonable distance of the horn was within good reception area of the radio report. At the same time Phil Frame, sports editor, using head-phone receivers, took down the play-by-play account by innings and the complete story of the game was carried in the final edition of The Evening Gazette.

A large painted banner surrounds the broadcasting horn on the front of the Gazette Bldg., announcing the radio party. The banner will be used for other radio parties given by this paper and pedestrians who read while they walk will know when a special program is being broadcast.

The World Series games will be broadcast every afternoon and fans are invited to take up their places anywhere within hearing distance.

PAUL FULLER, FILM DIRECTOR, FALLS TO DEATH

Tragedy Occurs At Party Given In His Honor

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—A gay party in the apartment of Miss Helen Greene, motion picture actress, at the exclusive Park Central Hotel, came to a tragic climax early today when Paul Fairfax Fuller, 29, well-known motion picture director, fell to his death on the roof of a rotunda nine floors below. Police believe that Fuller toppled out of the window by accident.

His absence was unnoticed in the Greene apartment for an hour and a half.

While detectives below sought to solve the mystery of his identity and determine from whence he had fallen, Fuller's friends continued their celebration upstairs. They had met to congratulate Fuller upon his success in directing a new picture.

The party, consisting of motion picture actresses and men connected with the motion picture industry, learned of the tragedy only when police knocked on the door to make an inquiry.

Miss Greene became hysterical. She could give no explanation for the accident, except that the director might have gone to a window for air and lost his balance.

Fuller is a nephew of Paul Fuller, a former president of the Pathe Film Company. He had a wife, Mrs. Helen Fuller, twenty-seven, and a fifteen-months-old daughter, Helen. Mrs. Fuller is in a state of collapse.

LAZZERI SUFFERS INJURED WRIST

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6—Tony Lazzeri, second baseman of the New York Yankees will play against the Pirates today with his right wrist tightly bandaged. The wrist was injured when Lazzeri tagged out Grantham in the second inning yesterday. The two players collided so heavily that Lazzeri's wrist required medical attention after the game.

Waite Hoyt, New York pitcher who was knocked out of the box, suffered a badly blistered finger on his pitching hand as a result of attempting to put too much "stuff" on the ball.

These injuries increased New York's hospital list to three, as Herb Pennock was hit on the knee by a line drive in batting practice before the series started. Mark Koenig, Yankee shortstop, was knocked dizzy in a collision with Traynor yesterday, but was not hurt badly.

KING BORIS OF BULGARIA PLANS TO WED ITALIAN PRINCESS

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Official circles in Rome were engaged today in completing arrangements for the imminent betrothal of the Princess Giovanna, third daughter of the king and queen of Italy, to King Boris, of Bulgaria, according to a Daily Mail dispatch from the Italian capital.

Although official confirmation is lacking, well informed circles reported the announcement of the royal engagement would be forthcoming as soon as certain religious difficulties were ironed out. The princess is a Roman Catholic and Boris is a member of the Greek Orthodox Church.

Reports were that discussion of the religious question was the object of the visit of King Boris to the Pope yesterday, the Bulgarian monarch hoping to arrange a solution similar to that used when the Italian princess Mafalda married the prince of Hesse, a protestant.

The wedding is looked upon as perfectly in accord with Italy's policy of extending her power and prestige in the Balkans.

FORBES FIELD, Oct. 6.—Those slugging, slashing New York Yankees, intent on sewing up the world's championship in as short a time as possible, came out to the ball yard here this afternoon and administered to the dumbfounded Pittsburgh Pirates their second defeat in as many days. The score was 6 to 2.

One big inning enabled the Gothamites to win and another inning almost caused them to lose. This was in the first when Pipgras permitted the Pirates to get off to a one-run advantage but a big third enabled the visiting clouters to forge ahead and stay there.

Pipgras pitched ably outside the bad first inning. In that stanza Lloyd Waner opened with a triple down the third base line and scored when Barnhart skied to Ruth in deep center. Paul Waner fanned and Wright flied to Ruth.

Combs opened the Yankee third with a single and was followed by Koenig's single. Combs scored and Koenig reached third when L. Waner kicked the ball around in centerfield. Ruth sacrificed Koenig home and Gehrig doubled. Gehrig took third and Meusel's single and scored on Lazzeri's sacrifice fly. Dugan skied out to retire the side.

The advantage was enough to let the Yanks win, with Pipgras pitching the way he was. Reversing their performance at the opener, the Yankees out-hit the Pirates, easily solving Aldridge's curves when hits meant runs while they again performed capably in defense of their own hurler.

With the game sewed up the Yanks added insult to injury when Aldridge went up in the air in the eighth. Cvengros replaced him but the visitors had a field day scoring three more runs. A Pirate rally in the eighth resulted in one run.

The attendance was 47,634.

FIRST INNING

New York—Combs went out on a high fly to Barnhart. Koenig drove a single over second. Ruth struck out, swinging hard at the third one. Gehrig walked. Meusel out, Aldridge to Harris. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Pittsburgh—L. Waner knocked a triple down the third base line. Barnhart hit a long sacrifice fly to Ruth, L. Waner scoring after the catch. P. Waner fanned. Ruth took Wright's long fly. One run, one hit, no errors.

SECOND INNING

New York—Lazzeri bounced a single off Aldridge's glove. Dugan fouled to Gooch. Bengough also fouled to Gooch. Pipgras lined to Grantham. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Traynor bounced to Pipgras, who tossed him out at first. Grantham singled to center. Harris grounded to Gehrig, who touched first for an unassisted putout. Grantham took second. Gooch fouled to Bengough. No runs, one hit, no errors.

THIRD INNING

New York—Combs hit safely between first and second. Koenig singled past second and Combs scored and Koenig reached third when L. Waner fumbled the ball in centerfield. Ruth raised a high sacrifice fly to L. Waner, Koenig scoring after the catch. "Columbia Lou" Gehrig doubled between center and right, the ball rolling to the barrier. Meusel singled past Wright, who made a wonderful stop but was in no position to throw. Gehrig went to third. Lazzeri hit a short sacrifice fly to right, and Gehrig slid home safely. Gooch fumbled the throwin. Meusel took second on the play. Dugan flied to P. Waner. Three runs, four hits, one error.

Pittsburgh—Lazzeri moved back and made a difficult catch of Aldridge's short liner. Lazzeri tossed out L. Waner. Barnhart placed a single over second. Meusel gathered in P. Waner's long fly after backing to the scoreboard. No runs, one hit, no errors.

FOURTH INNING

New York—Bengough flied to L. Waner on the first ball pitched. Pipgras fanned, swinging. Combs was also retired on strikes. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Pittsburgh fans begin the old "lock-step" clapping in hopes of a rally. Wright lifted a fly to Combs. Traynor knocked a double between center and left. Combs made a fine stop and threw to second but Traynor slid into the bag safely. Dugan made a spectacular catch of a foul fly by Grantham. He leaned far over the boxes near third base and caught the ball with his gloved hand. Harris flied to Ruth. No runs, one hit, no errors.

FIFTH INNING

New York—P. Waner camped under Koenig's fly. Ruth walked on four pitched balls. L. Waner went back to the barrier to take Gehrig's long fly. Ruth went to second after the catch. Meusel struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Gooch out, Pipgras to Gehrig. Aldridge fouled to Bengough. L. Waner soared to Combs. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SIXTH INNING

New York—Lazzeri lofted to P. Waner. Dugan singled over third on the first pitched ball. Bengough raised a high fly to L. Waner, Dugan holding first. Pipgras hit a short single, Dugan taking second. L. Waner made a sensational running catch of Combs' long drive, taking the ball over his shoulder near the centerfield barrier while going at top speed. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Combs made a nice jumping catch of Barnhart's liner. P. Waner hit safely between second and third. Wright got one hand on the ball. Wright lifted a short fly to Combs. Traynor bounced to Koenig, who stepped on second, forcing P. Waner. No runs, one hit, no errors.

SEVENTH INNING

New York—Koenig hit a long fly to P. Waner. Ruth grounded to Harris, who ran over and touched the bag. Gehrig out, Aldridge to Harris. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Grantham knocked a two-bagger, the ball striking the right-field barrier. Ruth played the ball perfectly and held him to two bases. Harris out, Koenig to Gehrig, Grantham holding second. Gooch lined to Lazzeri, who doubled Grantham off second. No runs, one hit, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING

New York—Meusel hit safely through the pitcher's box. Lazzeri hit a "Texas Leaguer" in right field, putting Meusel on third. Meusel scored on a wild pitch by Aldridge. Gooch partially stopped the ball, but Meusel beat him to the bag. Dugan dumped a bunt in front of the plate and beat it out. Gooch tossed the ball to third and Lazzeri was out when he overslid the base. It was scored a fielder's choice. Bengough walked. Aldridge lost control and also passed Pipgras, filling the bases. Cvengros, a southpaw replaced Aldridge in the box. Combs was hit by a pitched ball, forcing in Dugan, and leaving the bases still clogged. Koenig singled to left, Bengough scoring. The bases are still fully populated. Ruth grounded to Grantham, who threw to Gooch, forcing Pipgras at the plate. Gehrig hit the first ball pitched to Traynor, who stepped on third forcing Koenig. Three runs, three hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Pittsburgh fans are booing because Cuyler is not permitted to bat for Cvengros. Smith, batting for the pitcher, rolled to Gehrig, who touched first. L. Waner walked. Barnhart singled to center, driving L. Waner to third. P. Waner raised a sacrifice fly to Meusel, L. Waner scoring after the catch. Wright drove to Koenig, who ran over and touched second, forcing Barnhart. One run, one hit, no errors.

NINTH INNING

New York—Dawson now pitching for Pittsburgh. Meusel hit to Wright, who fumbled the ball momentarily and the batter reached first on the error. Lazzeri filed to L. Waner, Meusel holding first. L. Waner also took Dugan's fly after a short run. Bengough hit to Wright as Meusel stole second and the latter was thrown out at third. No runs, no hits, one error.

Pittsburgh — Traynor drove a long fly to Combs. Grantham struck out, swinging hard at the third one. Harris hit to Pipgras, who ran over a touched first for an unassisted putout. No runs, no hits, no errors.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

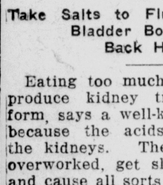

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean; thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. —Adv.

ANNOUNCE PROGRAM FOR SCHOOL LYCEUM COURSE THIS YEAR

Six attractive numbers have been arranged on the 1927-28 Xenia High School Lyceum Course, being announced by school officials.

Sale of tickets for the course starts Monday, October 10. Adult tickets will cost $2.50 and students, by sitting in the balcony, may purchase special season tickets for $1.

Extraordinary entertainment is promised this year, featured by a lecture by Charlie Paddock, who has been world's champion short distance sprinter for seven years.

The opening number of the course will be given October 19 in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium by the "Sunshine Girls." A trio of girls compose this group of entertainers, including Miss Marion Watson, personal director and soprano; Miss Marjory Josephine Jacques, reader and impersonator; and Miss Alice Leamans, violinist and accompanist.

Charlie Paddock will lecture on the subject, "Play the Game," November 15. Paddock has an unusual athletic record and has established thirty-eight out of a possible forty new records in short distance running during his career. Besides his athletic accomplishments, he is also a writer and journalist.

A program made up of fun, music and mystery, will be offered by Taylor and Keylor, to be presented as the third number of the course December 6.

The Kater Duo is scheduled for the fourth number January 12, 1928. James Kater, magician, and Mrs. Grace Kater, soprano, pianist, reader, whistler, and accordionist will entertain with an evening of magic, music and fun.

Zellner, in his "Flashes from Life," will appear for the fifth number March 20, 1928. Zellner is a characterist and gives fine portrayals of Bibilcal characters.

The concluding number will be presented March 29, when Chief Strongheart will deliver a lecture on "From Peace Pipe to War Trail." Chief Strongheart was born on the Yakina reservation in 1887.

To Fuhrman's great surprise the cap of the can suddenly flew off and struck him in the face with great force.

TRUAX VISTS FISH HATCHERY SITES IN COUNTY WEDNESDAY

Agriculture Chief Inspects Farms With Williamson

Charles V. Truax, state director of agriculture, who accompanied Representative R. D. Williamson to Xenia Wednesday from Columbus, inspected the availability of three sites for the proposed location of a fish hatchery in Greene County.

Truax was most favorably impressed with the old waterworks, reservoir on the farm of Dr. D. E. Spahr, Springfield Pike, but considered the purchase price of $15,000 for the site "out of the question," according to Representative Williamson.

A spring on the Paul James farm, on a cross road between the Columbus Pike and the Wilberforce and Clifton Pike, and the Dewine property on the Springfield Pike opposite the city waterworks plant, were also inspected as possible sites for the hatchery.

Truax said that the state expects to invest at least $15,000 in the erection of a hatchery. For that reason, the state does not intend to go to great expense in the purchase of a site.

The twenty-two acre Spahr farm is considered more conveniently located for the hatchery, as it is easily accessible from a main highway and is centrally located. Truax asked Dr. Spahr to reconsider the price quoted for purchase of the property. As less than half the twenty-two acres will be needed to meet the needs of a hatchery, a reduction in the price of the land may meet with favorable consideration, it is thought.

Truax was also impressed with the spring on the Paul James farm. The owner is said to be willing to donate five or six acres of land to the state for a hatchery. However, the site is inconveniently situated.

No price was quoted to the agricultural director for the purchase of about eight acres to the Dewine property on the Springfield Pike. The land is for sale, however.

The state director did not visit the John Bryan farm near Yellow Springs, owned by the state, but this tract has virtually been abandoned as a site for the hatchery, due to the presense of porous limestone which will not hold water.

Members of the committee are: J. D. Adair, representing the city school board; Superintendent H. C. Pendry; Louis Hammerle, principal of Central High School; Coach Victor Kolb; Glen Patterson, assistant coach; Robert Morton, football captain; William North, manager of the football team; William Clemans, captain of the barketball team and Abe Rakoff, manager of the barketball team.

The committee will hold a meeting the first Monday of every month. Its object is to arouse greater interest in athletics and to supply information concerning high school finances.

BAND WILL SPONSOR HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The Xenia Municipal Band is sponsoring its annual Hallowe'en frolic in Xenia and plans are now under way to make it the most extensive affair of the kind ever held here.

Booster crowds will be sent to all of the smaller towns in the county announcing the event and inviting the entire county to join in the big celebration.

Members of the band announce that the usual prizes will be offered for various events of the program and the big parade will, as usual, be an important feature of the evening.

While the band members have not yet worked out the details of the program they state that they intend to make it a rousing affair in which the entire community is urged to cooperate.

FOOLS CHERRY TREE

This warm weather is playing tricks on a cherry tree at the home of W. P. McKay, W. Third St. The tree is budding for the second time with new leaves and blossoms, all set for another crop of fruit this season.

The tree bore one crop of nice cherries, shed its leaves, thinking summer was a thing of the past and when Old Sol staged a come-back, thought it would turn the trick again this season, and put on a spring-like garb of light green leaves and pink and white blossoms.

EX-XENIANS CLAIM CONNECTION WITH LABOR DAY FOUNDER

"Labor Day," now observed as a national holiday, has more than the average significance to Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Kyle, Pasadena, Calif., formerly of Xenia, it is learned.

It recently became known that Mr. and Mrs. Kyle are the closest surviving relatives of the "Father of Labor Day."

The measure making Labor Day a national holiday was first introduced in Congress in 1892, by the late James Henderson Kyle, United States senator from South Dakota. One of Senator Kyle's first official acts after being elected by the Populist party in 1891 to succeed Gideon C. Moody, was to introduce the Labor Day proposal.

Mr. and Mrs. Kyle, first cousins of the "Father of Labor Day," reside now at 347 Galena Ave., Pasadena, Calif., and have lived there for the last eight years, after moving from Mansfield, O., in 1919. Mr. and Mrs. Kyle were also themselves distant cousins before marriage.

Senator Kyle's measure making Labor Day nationally observed, was enacted as a law in 1894, but at first was bitterly fought in Congress. However, sentiment was strong for the measure and it was followed by similar legislation in the various states. Senator Kyle died in 1901.

Mr. Kyle many years ago was a partner in a jewelry firm on S. Detroit St. and is now associated with a large watch repair firm at Pasadena. He is a cousin of T. Dales Kyle, this city, and has a number of other relatives in Greene County.

Care of Babies

This baby has never had a day's sickness and never a cross or fretful spell that lasted an hour. And what do you suppose is responsible for this healthy, happy condition? Not diet, for he has eaten just about anything and everything a child could eat. Not drugs, for he has not been dosed with opiates; he has never had a drop of paregoric. Nor has his sensible mother ever made him taste castor oil. Yet his nerves are sound and his little bowels are strong, and when he does seem the least restless or wakeful, or out of sorts—or likely to be—his mother has him all serene again in ten or fifteen minutes!

The secret of this complete freedom from the many ills and upsets so common to infants? Plain old-fashioned Castoria. A million and more mothers swear by Castoria, and no wonder! A few drops and an approaching fever, colic, diarrhea or consipation seems to vanish in thin air. Castoria is purely vegetable; that is why physicians tell children of any age—the youngest infant. And how they love the taste!

One world of warning: get the pure, real Castoria. Fletcher's Castoria is the original. It is the kind doctors specify. And with every bottle comes a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" that is worth its weight in gold to any mother or prospective mother. So, remember: tell your druggist you wish Fletcher's Castoria. —Adv.

PROFIT IN PETTING

Anybody who is in love, affianced or just plain married will be interested in the goings on in Cleveland, where a spooning couple was handed $3,675 damages for false arrest, perpetrated because they were admiring one another in a parked automobile. The night was balmy, the couple also, and a full moon sailed the sky which looked down upon the incident. His sense of propriety offended at the spectacle, the officer in the case refused to believe that the two were honest-to-goodness man and wife; and indeed it is not the accepted thing for sober wedded folk to be greatly affected by the moon.

But if they are it is folly to hinder them in any way whatsoever, for there are entirely too many brickbat marriages, and a show of good feeling between man and wife should be heartily encouraged. Yet, it won't do to ignore Madame Grundy too far, and it may be advisable to require spooners to show a marriage certificate before they may be left alone in the moonlight. That will add to the complexity of life, for the average man is already burdened with so many license cards that he will shrink from one card more.

On the other hand, if $3,675 is to be obtained by a judgment against conventionally minded policemen in so easy a fashion the art of necking may be sadly exploited. We hate to see sacred things professionalized. Suppose you could trick yourselves into a false arrest and then get a large lump of damages, the end becomes mercenary and the proceeding all wrong. One sweet kiss from the only girl should be a far more valuable than any amount of gold.

HEROISM NOT FORGOTTEN

The men of the American legion received an even warmer welcome than they expected in France. Where they had had some misgiving that their service had been forgotten, they find that it is not, and that the French people will never forget the sacrifices they made and the heroism they showed.

Devoted and unselfish service does not fail of its reward. When those soldiers were suffering in the almost intolerable trenches, they perhaps felt that it was a thankless task. They find now that they have gained the life long gratitude of the French people.

So it is in all effects for the benefit of one's country and community. The work done may have seemed ill rewarded at the time. But it is appreciated far more than they realized.

COURSHIP AND CRIME

Here, says Judge Charles A. Oberwager, New York City magistrate, is the itemized cost of a young man's evening out with his best girl 15 years ago:

Theatre, balcony seats, $2; candy 60 cents; car fare, 20 cents; sodas, 20 cents. Totals $3.

And this is the cost of a "big evening" for a fast-stepping young couple today:

Orchestra seats for a Broadway revue $15; flowers $6; taxicabs $6; night club supper, from $20 up.

And there, says the judge, you have the reason for much of the youthful crime from embezzlement to banditry.

The American people have not been able to pay proper attention to politics during the past few months, because they were watching the baseball contests, and they won't be able to do so for the next few weeks, because they will be paying attention to football.

After having reflected upon the difficulties and burdens carried by the president, most of us here have chosen not to run for that office.

The Way of the World

NATURE NEVER TIRESOME

Nature never grows stale. She never fails to interest. Nature is full of tricks if you know how to make her perform. Over in Glen Cove, N. Y., there is an apple tree that bears 35 varieties of apples. Grafting operations perform wonders. Burbank knew the tricks. Others are learning. We shall have to learn a lot of things in the next hundred years if the world isn't going to be hungry. Just now population is growing too fast for the food supply.

GARY KNEW

Elbert H. Gary, late head of the U. S. Steel corporation, was not so wrapped up in the processes of making money that he didn't keep in mind the value of education. In his will he set up eight trust funds to provide scholarships in eight colleges. Young people should be interested in this expression of Judge Gary. It's the men who have been through the mill of life who believe most in education. Think that over when you are trying to decide whether you are going to college this fall.

THE TEST

A well known musician, making a speech in Chicago, proposes a new test for the selection of wife or husband. He says:

"Give the prospective bride or bridegroom a $10 bill and have him or her visit a music store. If music dealing with love, home, country or mother is purchased get married by the nearest preacher.

"On the other hand, if the person returns with a lot of hot jazz tunes, jumbled up noises and seditious rhythms and songs with words of questionable meaning, just find the nearest exit and keep on going."

If this man's advice is followed marriages will go out of fashion. At the moment jazz is king.

CRAZES

Speaking of jazz, there's no need to worry over-much about momentary crazes. Fads may last for years but if they have no real value they fade out. And over the long run, years are only moments. In the Middle Ages Europe went through an astonishing craze for dancing. Thousands danced in the streets. Madness was in the air. It was the main idea of the period. But the dance fad of the Middle Ages has been forgotten. Jazz will be forgotten

The Daybook of A New Yorker

By Burton Rascoe

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. — A psychiatrist friend of mine tells me that a fear of failure is one of the most prevalent diseases of the mind in New York and that it is most rife among the eminently successful. Actors, musicians and writers are especially liable to the disease, but it also afflicts business men, pugilists and baseball players.

People suffering from this disease are capable of giving themselves violent headaches, acute indigestion, paralysis of the arms or larynx and amnesia—or at least all the symptoms of those ills.

One of the most famous of living conductors of symphony orchestras, a man known to thousands of concert goers in New York, has only recently been partially cured of his fear of failure. No one who ever watched him conduct would ever imagine that often he has held up the concerts for several minutes while he shook with fear in the wings, afraid to go on the stage. On one occasion just before he was scheduled to conduct a first performance of a new symphony, he gave himself paralysis of the right arm. He could not lift the baton. His arm hung limp and bloodless at his side. The concert was conducted by another man. As soon as the concert was over the "paralysis" disappeared. Psychiatrists convinced him that the "paralysis" was mental and after dredging into the quirks of his mind enabled him partially to conquer his fear.

Singers, violinists and pianists who disappoint their audiences by sudden illnesses are usually victims, my friend tells me, of imaginary diseases. They experience all the symptoms and the pain of the diseases, but what they actually suffer from is fear. There was the case of a woman violinist who not only failed to show up on the night she was to give a concert but disappeared and apparently suffered a loss of memory for several days. Cynics said it was press-agent stuff. My friend the psychiatrist says that it was amnesia induced by excessive anxiety not to fail.

Most of the great stars of the stage confess to violent stage-fright on the nights they open in a play in New York. When the opening of a play is postponed it is often because the star has brought the symptoms of some illness upon himself or herself out of sheer fright.

New Yorkers are distinguished for their ability to sleep through fires, explosions, the roar of traffic and other noises. Even so, the toughest of nerves have their susceptibilities. Tenants of an apartment building recently brought two men into court for disturbing their slumbers. According to the complaintants the men had for two days and nights been operating a steel drill in the work of blasting rock for a new building. The nuisance was abated. To a certain extent. The drilling was permitted between seven in the morning and seven in the evening.

KELLYGRAMS

Our Passion For Cinderella Stories

One of the most commendable traits that crop out in people of all races is the disposition to sympathize with worthy underdogs.

We are usually pleased when the poor boy, or the homely girl, or the ultimate consumer, gets the best of some one more rich or powerful.

No wonder that in the literature of every civilized people one theme stands foremost—Cinderella.

Whether in ancient fairy tales, or in an average successful play, the story is, with slight variation, much the same. A misunderstanding but various girl or boy, poor at the start, ends up rich in evening dress—and, as further proof of triumph, marries the handsome prince or beautiful princess.

The most popular juvenile story ever written was Miss Olcott's "Little Women," in which the children who went to their first party, Cinderella-like almost in rags, later became happy and prosperous.

In the Bible, too, there is a strong tendency ever to emphasize the virtues of ultimate triumph of the downtrodden. David, a lowly shepherd boy, with a crude, home-made sling, goes forth and kills the great Goliath. Joseph, after standing the taunts and abuses of his older brothers, eventually finds himself in a position of importance, the right-hand man in a big organization, able magnanimously to befriend the brothers who had mistreated him.

Our sympathies are with the stepped-on because most of us feel that we, ourselves, are not altogether appreciated. What boy who has been teased or disregarded by the older members of his family hasn't listened with delight to the story of Joseph? And what boy hasn't imagined himself returning to his home town in costly equipage, with a retinue of attendants, and bearers of burdens, in token of his success and genius, nodding haughtily at former school teachers or neighbors who predicted that he would end up in jail?

How we all like to picture ourselves in the act of lifting the mortgage on the old homestead with all who once scoffed now eager to praise!

We love to see the less polished character on the stage outdo the well-dressed, smooth-spoken stranger, who appears to have enjoyed superior advantages. Each person in the audience puts himself in the place of the humble character who is sure to triumph over his oppressors not later than 10:45, or toward the end of Act III.

From our Cinderella instinct to sympathize with those who are humble and oppressed it is only a step to find ourselves arrayed on the side of those who are merely humble without being oppressed.

The championship of all the lowly and all the common people is the stock in trade of the average politician. Indeed, the politician goes so far on his demagogic way in defending and glorifying the lowly man that he usually insists that he is one himself.

I Have Said in My Heart

MOTHER

It seems as though there were more strangers between mothers and daughters than in any other family relations. Every girl today should stop and ask herself, "Am I acquainted with mother?"

This lack of acquaintance is sometimes the girl's fault, and sometimes—sad to say—it is the mother's fault; but generally both are a little to blame.

As in all life's troubles, the greatest are those which come from lack of understanding. The mother must understand that the world has moved, that we are franker, freer, more liberty loving race than ever before, that in the hearts of the young there is no sin like the sin of hypocrisy, and today perhaps the daughter has no more little follies than had the mother before her, but the mother would not confess them even to herself, and daughter makes a habit of blazoning them to the world. Many things, too, that our mothers spoke of with bated breath, because to repeat them was not supposed to be modest, have been found to be perfectly natural and decent and only when one suppressed the ordinary speech about them did one begin to form habits of a prurient mind.

Fortunate is the girl today who has a mother broadminded enough, tolerant enough, and sympathetic enough to remember her own girlhood and so become the girl's friend. If both mother and daughter would take a little trouble to understand and court confidence with each other, both would be much happier.

When a young girl reaches the milestone in her career which is marked nowadays by the bobbing of her hair and being allowed to talk on every subject under the sun, a strange influence seems to beckon her off to an isolated rock where she plunges into the deepest depths of melancholia because everyone misunderstands her, "everyone" meaning Mother.

Sometimes the great difference in the ages between mother and child keeps the mother from entering heartily into childish joys and sorrows as would a younger woman who had just passed girlhood's portals when her babies began to come.

Sympathy is the greatest virtue in a mother just as it is in a friend. Ofttimes, however, it is purely a matter of selfishness. The lesson that life is one huge example of give and take must be learned by both mothers and daughters.

Memo: Be sure and make Mother's acquaintance. Usually you will find her more interesting than any girl you know.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Preserving Your Teeth's Beauty

I have spoken of the great importance of having attractive teeth if you wish the whole effect of your mouth to be one of beauty. There is nothing quite as disappointing as to see a girl who is pretty until she opens her mouth. Then you catch a glimpse of irregular, discolored teeth and the picture is ruined for you. Your smile should be your loveliest expression, and to make it so you must take intelligent care of your teeth.

Soda or salt dissolved in water makes as good dentifrices as I know of. If you use nothing else when you brush your teeth you can keep them lovely and white. If you prefer one of the prepared dentifrices there are, of course, many good ones.

Much depends upon your tooth brush. Don't use a "mop rag" for a tooth brush and expect it to get your teeth clean. It simply can't do the job. Get a brush with good, stiff bristles and brush vigorously. But always in a rotary motion, of from gums to the edge. If your gums are sensitive and bleed when you brush your teeth, try using cold water instead of warm.

I know many women who always carry a tooth brush with them in their handbag and brush the teeth well after each and every meal. This is the ideal system, although if it is impossible, you should at least brush them morning and night. In order that you can have a dry brush each time, it is good to have two or more tooth brushes. I have read that the young lady who was picked by a commission of dental experts as the possessor of the best teeth east of the Mississippi, states that she uses six bruhes insead of one, and keeps rotating them.

Don't use dirty tooth brushes. Sterlize them frequently and replace the old ones as soon as they begin to wear out. Dental authorities have said that tooth brushes are carriers of all kinds of germs when they are not kept exceedingly clean and well sterilized.

Inactivity and unhealthiness are synonyms when applied to every part of the body. It is the same with the gums. If you want to keep your gums healthy, you must exercise them. The only way you can do this is by massage. Massage them vigorously at least once a day, and you will be keeping them in a condition to withstand pyorrhea. Or, if you can stand it, stimulate them with salt water and a stiff brush.

Of course, a great deal depends upon your general health. If your digestion is impaired, if you are constipated, your mouth cannot be sweet nor can your teeth and gums be kept free from the germs that cause canker sorts and decay. When you brush your teeth, you should rinse your mouth with a good antiseptic. It is also advisable to rinse your tooth brush in the same antiseptic before you use it in your mouth. Get in the habit of drinking a full glass of water at the same time.

However good the care you take of your teeth, you will be wise to have them examined by a dentist every six months, so that you can catch any decay before it has a chance to spread.

I have spoken now of your teeth and means of making them contribute to your beauty. I want to discuss a subject of an altogether different order, but one that I feel is closely connected with the beauty of the mouth. This is diction, or how to develop a charming voice.

If plain milk toast is not liked by members of your family, possibly tomato toast will appeal to them. It is nothing more nor less than the old familiar milk toast with strained tomato added. It makes a good dish for breakfast, luncheon or supper.

Tomato Toast Baked Potato
Lettuce with Thousand Island Dressing
Fruit Blanc Mange Milk

Today's Recipes

Tomato Toast—One can tomato soup, two tablespoons butter, four tablespoons flour, one cup milk, salt and pepper, three tablespoons strained cheese, six slices toast. Melt the butter, stir in flour and when well blended add the milk. Stir over the fire until smooth and thick, add soup, heat, season to taste, and pour over bread toasted on one or both sides. Press cheese through strainer and sprinkle over the top. The cheese may be omitted.

Fruit Blanc Mange—Put one quart of milk into double boiler and heat to boiling point. Add four tablespoons cornstarch mixed smooth in a little cold milk with a pinch of salt and half a cup of sugar. Cook until thick, season to taste and pour over cooked or fresh fruit. Eat cold with sugar and cream.

Macaroons — Are little cakes made of stiff egg whites, sugar and almond paste. They differ from kisses in that the later are always sweeter and more frothy in texture.

Chocolate Layer Cake — Two cups brown sugar, one-half cup butter, one-half cup sour milk, one-half cup hot water, two eggs, one teaspoon vanilla, two squares chocolate cut fine and dissolved in the hot water, two cups flour, measured before siftiing, one heaping teaspoon soda in sour milk. Bake in layer tins.

Fluff—Foam, fluff or snow puff (souffle), whip or syllabub are all terms used for mixtures made very light and foamy by stiff egg whites or whipped cream.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. — For the sufferer from insomnia no better literature can be recommended than one of the annual reports of the United States Coast Guard.

If that won't send the sleepless one off into a trance nothing will.

When a hurricane comes scheeching up out of the Caribbean and the waves break funnel-top-high off Hatteras and merchan ship's scudding, terrified, for shelter, the coast guard cutters put to sea, hunting perishing mariners to rescue.

When fog settles on the Newfoundland Banks and the transalantic lanes are deadly with icebergs coast guard cutters dodge, tootling, around among them, warning liners where destruction lurks.

Adventure Is Watchword

When a big vessel piles up on a lee shore in a tempest and it's obvious to anybody with a lick of sense that no human power can save a soul abroad her, a coast guard crew launches a cockle-shell in the surf, pulls serenely out to the disintegrat-outfit.

You can judge for yourself if it's an adventurous service.

Well, it turns out duller official reports than the patent office.

They mention, for example, a rescue, on such and such a date. The distressed ship's name is given, and her captain's. The number of those saved is recorded. The incident's latitude and longitude are mentioned. Then, perhaps, the cutter's commander adds, casually, some such remark as: "The wreck foundered," signs his name and that's all there is to it.

About as much thrill as there is to a one- horse country bank's monthly balance sheet—to somebody who hasn't any money on deposit there,never did have, and never expects to.

Work Is Perfunctory.

What's more, I've yet to find a coast guardsman who can tell an exciting story of any of his work.

It seems to be purely perfunctory with 'em.

Lieutenant Commander Stephen S. Yeandle, first assistant C. Billard, the guard's commandant, was called on to make a little talk recently before the Atlantic Deep Waterways association convention in Baltimore.

He was pretty hard put to it to think of anything to say at first, but finally he bethought himself of the fact that the guard had rescued 15,000 persons from "imminent danger" in the last five years.

Was that of any interest?

"You bet it is," said the convention. "Tell us about it."

"Why, that's all there is to tell," said Yeandle. "There isn't any more."

Guards Are Modest.

The convention was clamorous and insistent. The commander cudgeled his brain—hard. At last he got another inspiration—coast guard cutters, in those same five years, had helped vessels with 85,000 sailormen and passengers on board them. How about that? Would that do?

The convention settled down to listen. "Go on," it prompted.

"I got no place to go," complained Yeandle. "We simply helped 'em."

The convention looked disappointed. Yeandle sensed it and evidently it hurt him. He appeared to have failed, somehow. Then he brightened. Another idea had struck him.

"We took 47,000 persons from roofs, treetops and other points of peril during the Mississippi flood," he proclaimed, hopefully.

"You should get our last reports," he informed delegates who tried to pump him later. "That has all the figures better than I can give 'em."

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

HARDWORKING YOUNG PEOPLE

My favorite form of philanthropy—although I hate that word—if I could indulge in luxuries, would be to help those of our young people who are making such an effort to stay in school until they finish their courses. They work after school and Saturdays, cheerfully giving up the fun which they should have, to earn money to buy books and clothes. Sometimes parents and friends help, often they have to face actual discouragement at home.

I often wonder why lonely, childless people don't make a point of finding some of these young folks and giving them a helping hand.

Here is a letter from one of them:

"My Dear Mrs. Lee: I am writing to you with the hopes that you may help me as you have others. I also take this opportunity to congratulate you on your helpful advice.

"I am 17 and a senior at high school. Circumstances in the family are making it very difficult for me to continue my course. I am doing well in my studies and am very anxious to finish. Mrs. Lee, do you suppose you could help me to secure afternoon work? It is the only means by which I can continue my schooling. I am dreading the day that I will be asked to leave and go to work, but if I can get afternoon work I will be allowed to complete the year.

'Hoping you may help me I will sign myself as

"DESPERADO."

Go to your school principal and tell him or her your problem. She will help you find work for she is interested in keeping you in school until you finish. And, my dear, if I did know of any special work which you could do—which I don't this minute—how could I find you when all the name and address I have is "Desperado"?

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a daily reader of your column and would like to ask you a question. If a man married in one state and then came here, and married some one else, would the second wife be his legal wife if she went through the ceremony legally, or would she be able to annul the marriage? My girl friends says the second wife will get an annulment from the authorities. Is she right? WONDERING."

There would be no need of annument as the second wife could not be legally married to a man who already had a wife. It would make no difference whether the first wife was in another state or another country, she would still be his only legal wife until she had divorced him or he her.

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent.

TWELVE AFTER ONE

"Skip along, now, children. You can't hang on mother's tail every moment, you know. Summer is coming and you will want to forage for yourselves, but if ever you are going to learn how 'tis high time you began.

"It is growing darker every second. Soon you will be able to see everything that moves among the shadows. Look, babies! Right in front of you is a furrow in the earth. Mr. Mole is just beneath the surface. If you hustle you can scratch him up before he has time to dig himself in.

"Let's see which one of you reaches the ridge first, and the winner shall have a fair chance to bring up the blind burrower. Right-o! Now you're on the right road. Good luck to you, babies!"

"Twelve after one! Poor Mr. Mole is in bad luck."

Peter looked about to find the speaker, but the lady, whoever it was, kept well out of sight.

"Twelve little 'possums went skipping down the lane," began the same high, squeaky voice, in a sing-song tone. Suddenly the cheerful humming turned into a squeal of dismay.

"Oh, dear! oh, dear me! What can the matter be? Danger in sight or Mrs. Rabbit would never be scampering through the field likt that.

"Just watch her! She isn't even taking time for a nibble, and never in my life have I seen her race through the clover without so much as a passing bite at the pink and white tops!"

The squeaky voice sounded much nearer than it had at first. Just to the right of the Rabbit Hole lay a fallen log, and out from behind log popped a whiskered face. Catching sight of Peter standing at the Rabbit Hole, the creature wrinkled its long nose, wiggled its ears and showed its sharp teeth.

OUT FROM BEHIND THE LOG POPPED A WHISKERED FACE.

Next—"No Cat in Spite of His Whiskers."

"This egg was packed by a girl thousands of miles away from England. She is supposed to be the prettiest girl in this neighborhood, and is prepared to marry the man who eats this egg."

He received a reply from the girl — "I am flattered by your proposal, but I am now married and have three children."

CENTRAL IS READY FOR GREENVILLE AT COX FIELD FRIDAY

Central High School's football squad is tapering off with practice sessions in preparation for the game with Greenville High at Cox Memorial Athletic Field Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Greenville is coached by a new athletic director, Ralph E. Ness, former mentor at Miamisburg High School, where he enjoyed great success, turning out several championship football and basketball teams. Ness made the all-Ohio football team one year while at Wittenburg University.

After accepting the position of athletic director at Miamisburg, Ness turned out one all-Miami Valley football team and two elevens that achieved runner-up honors in his four years of association with the school.

Greenville hopes to avenge Xenia's one-sided victory scored in 1926, but is no more determined than the local eleven to win Friday.

Dave Reese, Dayton, will again referee the contest and Kenneth Kerr, Wilmington, will act as umpire. Paul Fuller will be headlinesman.

Before the game starts, students of the high school will assemble in the Jean B. Elwell Auditorium for a final "pep" rally at 2:30 o'clock.

RESERVES CANCEL GAME WITH INDIANAPOLIS; TO PLAY DAYTON

Management of the Reserves has cancelled the scheduled second series of the three games with the A. B. C. colored nine, of Indianapolis, Ind., it is announced.

Reserves and Indianapolis could not agree on terms and the cancellation was made Wednesday. First game of the series was scheduled for next Sunday.

However, a baseball game at Washington Park Sunday is assured by the announcement a contest has been booked with the Dayton White Sox, a colored team.

Dayton will gather its players from a number of other clubs, including Greenfield, and expects to present a strong lineup for the game.

On the following Sunday, Reserves will wind up their season by meeting the Dayton Marcos, perhaps the most widely known colored nine in southern Ohio.

Don Clark, Dayton hurler, will be on the mound against the White Sox Sunday, it is guaranteed.

Manager Jess Chambliss announces that the owner of a valuable man's glove, found at Washington Park last Sunday, may claim it at the box office Sunday. Sunday's game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

WAILING ON MONONGAHELA AS PITTSBURGH LOSES FIRST TILT

By JACK LAIT

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6 —There is wailing and lamentation on the banks of the Monongahela today. Many of the home-towners have been at it since yesterday afternoon, having writhed neath the sackcloth and ashes of defeat continuously without the feel of a bed. It was a wild night in Pittsburgh. But it would have been frantic had the Pirates won.

The local enthusiasts are crying "lucky breaks" but New York's best piece of luck was Donie Bush's stubbornness in keeping Ray Kremer in after some of the sloppiest pitching ever beheld in a big series. In the battle of the big four right-handed pitchers the Yanks had the call. The expert dope was doubly reversed when the slugging Yanks were outhit and the pitching Pirates were outpitched.

I think the Yanks are the better outfit. Without their heavy guns working, they outclassed Pittsburgh's nifty but not mighty team.

Kremer helped lose his own game when he issued two passes in the third inning. Ruth's single, Grantham's error, and a dumb throw and muff by Smith completed the rout. That was a terrible inning for the Pirates, and that was where the game passed out.

Although it would have been logical to yank Kremer at this juncture, as he would be the first batter up in Pittsburgh's turn at bat, Bush let him stay. When Kremer came to bat he doubled and scored which was fine, but he shouldn't have gone back to the box. He got the balmy Pittsburgh air two innings later. It should have been three sooner.

Ruth was easily the hitting star, though the best he got was singles. He scored two runs and figured in three Yankee rallies. Lou Gehrig was the fielding luminary. He was a demon with that right-hand glove. Ruth, however made the only sensational catch of the affray.

It was higher class technical big league ball all the way, but would have rated only as a fair game without many big moments had the stake been anything less than a world title. A foreigner watching it would have wondered why so many people ($182,477 worth) were here. He would have seen workmanlike playing but few highspot thrills.

Even Ruth and Gehrig were exciting only because of what they have done rather than for what they did. They never flashed their specialty, the long wallops. Gehrig's triple in the first should have been held to a single.

To me, one of the chief figures of interest was Kiki Cuyler, sweatered, idle, nervous, petulant, at the mouth of the dugout like Achilles sulking in his tent. It's a family quarrel. But all the neighbors are in on it.

The crowd called aloud for him in the ninth inning pinch, but a feeble Brickell who hit to the pitcher was all they got. And groans were all that answered.

Had Cuyler batted, the nation's heart would have been in its windpipewith suspense and drama. And—had he hit—and had he tied the score—that would have been one no Frank Merriwell ever would have dared invent. No petty quarrel should rob America of a try at such a thrill.

But—he didn't.

And so the first game goes into the records reading rather mathematical, mechanical and kickless.

But—today's another day—and at least one hero must come through. I still hope it will be Kiki.

Regain Health this Way!

There is a right way to regain health—if you are anemic, weak, nervous and run-down, because of thin, watery blood and deficient gland activity.

The way is easy, pleasant, prompt. It is scientific, for it deals with supplying the elements needed by the system. The method has been used successfully 15 years. The use of Cadomene Tablets has grown to over one million a week, by users telling others how effective the method is. There are people in your own circle who have regained lost health. Your doctor or druggist can tell you of "the miracle-like" recoveries of thin, anemic, weak, nervous-run-down folks.

Take from your food all calcium, phosphorus, iron and magnesium—and you wither and die. Reduce the amount your blood and glands should have, and you soon become afflicted with Nerve Trouble, Gland Trouble, Anemia, Weakness, Digestive Disorders, Infected Teeth, Headaches, Lowered Vitality, Fatigue, a tendency to have "colds" frequently and a general lethargy of mind and body.

The "Balance" or level of your system is upset, due to modern methods of preparing foods from which vital elements have been taken. Cadomene gives back this lost balance promptly. Six to eight weeks' use is time enough to produce a delightful buoyancy of spirit and reserve strength. Simply take three to six tablets daily as per directions.

Cadomene Tablets is not a cheap "catch penny tonic", but an efficient enricher of the blood and a potent strength-inducing agent. Go, try it now. Learn that you can be well and strong. Druggists everywhere sell Cadomene on a guarantee of delightful satisfaction or money back.

Watch Your Kidneys!

To Be Well See That They Function Properly.

YOUR kidneys! Do you realize what an important part they play in your health and length of life? Your kidneys are the blood filters. When they act sluggishly, waste poisons remain in the blood and make one tired and drowsy, with often nagging backache, annoying headache and dizzy spells. That the kidneys are not acting right is often shown by scanty or burning excretions. Assist the kidneys with a stimulant diuretic. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

CHRISTIAN FORCED TO CONFESS CHRIST TO EARN SALVATION

boast of their membership, however, they do not say a word about their belief in Jesus Christ and the Word of God. These men will yell themselves hoarse for their political party; wear pins and buttons denoting their membership in any organization, but when it comes to acknowledging their belief in Christ and God, they act like they are dumb and cannot speak a word.

"Whether you think about life in this world and in the world to come, the greatest question you'll ever put to yourself or anybody else, the greatest business you'll ever be called upon to transact is, and the greatest concern of your soul ought to be: 'How can I with all my sin and all the indecencies of my life be justified in the sight of God and be saved from eternal death and hell?' You are concerned about a hundred other things but you'd better be concerned about this one most important thing of all. And you'd better neglect anything else than to neglect your soul.

"Our text says: 'If thou shalt believe in thine heart.' There is a difference between heart belief and head belief. A belief in the heart always manifests itself in two ways:

"First—by an absolute trust in the object of its faith. You can believe all you want to about Jesus Christ and go to hell with your head full of belief like that. It's believing in Him in your heart that saves you because it's that kind of belief that leads you to trust Him and commit yourself to him in order to be a Christian."

"Second—The other way that a belief in the heart manifests itself, is in the life. The other fellow who believes in his heart and then confesses with his mouth is the fellow who delivers the goods. The fellow who believes in his head and confesses with his mouth is the fellow Jesus was talking about when he said 'Why call ye me Lord, Lord and do not the things I say?'

"Confession of Jesus Christ, public confession is the important matter. Confess him by your life. Confess Christ in baptism. Confess Christ by joining some church.

"God demands a public confession, because and for your own sake. God demands it for the sake of others. God demands a confession for Christ's sake. If any human being did one millionth as much for you as Christ has done you would never cease to praise the human being who helped you. Why not confess Christ who died for you?"

The speaker closed with several illustrations out of his own experience which pointed the truth he was expounding. A large number of young people and others went forward in re-consecration and confessing Christ.

A good company of young people occupied reserved seats Wednesday evening including the entire squad of the Central High School football team. Practically all of the young men took a stand for better things and Christ. Two girls, Dorothy and Flora Ireton sang a duet. "Good Night Here and Good Morning Up There." The Rev. William H. Tilford, led in the opening Prayer and the Rev. J. P. Lytle in the closing prayer. Mayor J. W. Prugh, paid a glowing tribute to Dr. Biederwolf from the platform in connection with the free will offering for the evangelist which will be taken next Sunday. The Rev. Homer Grimes sang "The Hand That Was Wounded for Me." Dr. A. Gordon Maclennan of Philadelphia, pastor of the Bethany Church, to which Dr. Biederwolf goes from Xenia, was present at the service and had a conference with the evangelists later.

The following announcements were made: Thursday p. m. "The Unpardonable Sin"; Friday afternoon "Bringing Back the King"; Friday night "Getting Off On The Right Foot"; Saturday night short meeting at the church and a street meeting; three union services Sunday beginning at 10:45 a. m.; men only 3:00 p. m. General meeting at night. Members of the various churches can bring their usual offering in their envelopes and these will be returned to the respective churches; Monday night "Evangelistic Travelogue Around the World."

GRAND JURY BRINGS TWO INDICTMENTS; TWO DAY SESSION

velopment that has become noticeable since his arrest.

Cases of Lester Mitchell, Xenia, and Andrew Furay, Cedarville, charged with statutory offenses, were referred to Juvenile Court for consideration as the girls involved in the alleged offenses are under age.

Cases ignored by the grand jury included a charge of shooting with intent to wound against Constable Sidney Cornelius, Bath Twp. The charge was filed by Charles W. Murphy, Dayton. While investigating the activities of a party of campers on a farm near Osborn July 24, the constable discharged his revolver, the bullet wounding Murphy's sister, Mrs. Clara Smith, Dayton. Cornelius declared the shot was accidental.

No indictment was found against Lester Champ, accused of operating a Ford touring car belonging to Caleb Hitchcock, August 12, without the owner's consent.

The grand jury also ignored a charge of petit larceny against Alva Toner, S. Galloway St., who was bound over by Mayor John W. Prugh on the charge of stealing a broom worth seventy cents from Charles Melvin, blind broommaker, Sept. 13.

A fourth case ignored was that of Eugene Haines, charged in an affidavit sworn out by Fate Ewing with shooting with intent to kill. Haines was held to the grand jury by Mayor Prugh. The alleged shooting episode took place July 28.

The jury ignored a charge of selling a mortgaged auto without the consent of the owner of the claim, filed against Horace L. Beatty. Beatty was bound over to Common Pleas Court by J. E. Jones, justice of the peace, accused of selling mortgaged property with intent to defraud John T. Harbine, Jr., June 13.

The sixth case to be ignored was that of J. D. Shanahan, charged with making an assault with intent to kill upon Howard Nicely August 5. Shanahan was bound over by Oliver Watson, Sugarcreek Twp. justice of the peace. Shanahan, a farmer, had ordered a party of Dayton people, off his farm when he caught them picking blackberries.

In a report, following its usual inspection of the County Jail, the grand jury recommended that a men's toilet and lavatory be installed; that a new system of locking cells be installed; that the sheriff be provided with a jailor and that better lighting and ventilation be provided; and finally, that the heat from the jail be brought over from the Court House heating plant in the rear of the jail, instead of the furnace under the sheriff's residence at the jail.

That a new system of locking cells be installed, was also recommended by the last grand jury.

Prisoners indicted by the grand jury will be arraigned in Common Pleas Court on the indictments Friday or Saturday.

Practically all of the cases considered by the grand jury were of a minor nature, but because of the unusually heavy docket, two days were needed for the jury to complete its deliberations.

The grand jury was composed of:

Dr. Austin M. Patterson, Xenia, foreman; J. J. Mollitor, Beavercreek Twp.; Ethel Johnson, Silvercreek Twp.; Joseph Adams, Miami Twp.; F. S. Linkhart, Xenia; J. C. Short, Xenia; Jessie Turnbull, Cedarville Twp.; Josephine Ankeney, Beavercreek Twp.; Anna Baker, Miami Twp.; Samuel P. Faulkner, Caesarcreek Twp.; J. E. Keiter, Xenia Twp.; George D. Durnbaugh, Xenia; Ada Baker, Cedarville Twp.; Howard Norris, Xenia; Laura Wilkins, Xenia.

PITTSBURGH TAKES FIELD SECOND TIME STILL OPTIMISTIC

ed to do better the next time he starts. Waite Hoyt, the Yanks' starting pitcher in the series, said he "didn't mind" being knocked out of the box because it was "all in the game" and, besides, he realizes he wasn't "right."

High praise was given by the ball players to both relief pitchers in the opening game, Wilcy Moore for the Yanks, and John Miljus, the big Pittsburgh right-hander. It was freely predicted that both of them will be given an opportunity soon to start a game. Moore stopped the Pirates dead when they became threatening in the eighth and turned them back in one, two, three order in the ninth, while Miljus held the Yanks to one hit in the four innings he was on the mound.

Another capacity crowd was expected to turn out this afternoon to see the Pirates battle to turn the tide. The great crowd that packed every inch of space inside Forbes Field at the opening game was disappointed at the collapse of the highly-touted Kremer and the bungles of Grantham and Smith. Catcher Smith's failure to get Gehrig when he had him trapped between third and home will probably keep him on the bench today and maybe for the series.

The Pittsburgh fans seemed to resent the work of Ruth in hitting mere singles. They don't want him to hit at all but they think they are cheated when he doesn't wreck a fence when he does hit. Babe is anxious not to disappoint them in this respect.

Manager Bush's decision not to send Kiki Cuyler, heavy hitting outfielder, in to pinch hit has created a flurry of discussion. With the great Cuyler on the bench, Bush selected a substitute outfielder, Fred Brickell, to pinch hit for Miljus in the ninth and the best Brickell could do was to tap weakly to the pitcher.

"Why didn't he use Cuyler?" is the question asked on all sides today.

Paul Waner, one of Pittsburgh's idols, remained on the pedestal local fandom has placed him. His three hits, one of them a double, furnished one of the few bright spots for the home town fans. Today Waner and Ruth, the best publicized players in the series, are leading the batting averages, each with a mark of .750.

All reserved seats for this afternoon's game have been sold. The only seats left are for the temporary bleachers in center field and standing room. The police continued active in seizing t speculators, eleven men ha been arrested and 100 tickets fiscated in the last twenty hours. Although there wa mendous crush at the gates ye day only one casualty was re ed. The victim, Edward Schwa 20, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., was inj when he fell while climbing on the walls at the ball park.

Ask the owner of any Erskine Six what he thinks of it. His reply will do more to convince you of the unusual value built into every Erskine Six by Studebaker than any amount of sales talk. Here are the comments of a few Erskine owners:

Right There With Speed

"The Erskine Six is sure right there with speed and endurance. I think it is great and I don't believe it can be beat for the price. Believe me, it is just O. K."—Mrs. C. T., Pleasantville, N. J.

IS THERE NO RELIEF FROM SKIN TORTURE?

Must I Continue to Suffer the Unbearable Itching?

Are you one of those unfortunates who are going through life suffering with a skin disease, making you uncomfortable, making you less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in many forms of skin disease. Thousands of letters of gratitude prove its worth.

"I feel so happy for what S.S.S. has done for me that I want others to know about it. I suffered twenty long years from eczema. At times the itching was unbearable. During that time, I used all kinds of salves without receiving any real benefit. After taking six bottles of S.S.S., I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S.S.S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me." Cleophas Forte, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger is more economical.

The Smooth and Mighty Power of the Steam Engine

High Compression Performance with any Gasoline

In converting waste heat to power, the new companion invention to the Super-Six principle accomplishes the ideal performance of the high-compression type motor that is sought through the use of special and costly fuels.

The Super-Six principle transforms what otherwise is destructive vibration into useful power. The companion invention converts waste heat to power. Combined they afford the highest efficiency in power generation and transmission ever achieved within our knowledge. This makes Hudson the most economical car per pound weight in the world.

No wonder such performance results have won for Hudson its greatest triumph. Hudson offers a genuinely new kind of performance. Drive it and you will know.

There is a full line of Hudson Super-Six models on the 127-inch Super-Six chassis. And with the new 119-inch chassis, a duplicate of the larger car in all particulars save length, there is also a car for those who want such signal quality and performance in a shorter, more compact car.

HUNGRY CHILDREN GIVEN NOURISHING MEALS FROM FUNDS

Commenting on the need for funds to feed undernourished children in the Xenia Public Schools, the aim of the drive to be staged by Federated Parent-Teacher Association, next Tuesday, October 11, Miss Edna Bloom, principal of McKinley School, said Thursday: "Three thousand and fifty-one lunches were served to McKinley pupils last year. This could and should have been a much larger number. Because of the cost we selected only those who appeared to be suffering most. In every case the homes of these pupils were investigated by the school or a social worker. Many times pupils came to school breakfastless or had eaten food that stimulated for a short time rather than nourished.

"Before we had these organizations that now help us to solve, at least in part, these problems, teachers have kept jars of crackers and fruit in their cupboards to give to the child crying because of hunger. Often in those days and still occasionally, a teacher in our building has sent a child to her home for a warm breakfast or taken him home at noon for a real lunch.

"The hungry boy is a sick boy. He cannot attend. He is not alert. The more fortunate child also suffers since he must wait until this child, who is slower because of physical rather than mental conditions has performed the task assigned by the teacher."

YOUNG RESCUER MISSES HERO MEDAL

NEW YORK CITY.—It was a stormy sea. Waves beat six feet high. Two boys struggled vainly to swim back to shore after their canoe capsized. Here was a real chance for young Arthur Benson to prove himself a hero and win a medal maybe. He jumped in his canoe and brought the two victims safely to shore. But hope for a hero medal vanished when the two boys declined to give their names.

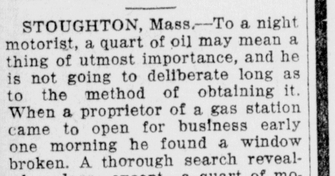

MAY HAVE HAD NO CHANGE

STOUGHTON, Mass.—To a night motorist, a quart of oil may mean a thing of utmost importance, and he is not going to deliberate long as to the method of obtaining it. When a proprietor of a gas station came to open for business early one morning he found a window broken. A thorough search revealed no loss—except—a quart of motor oil.

SCIATIC-NEURITIS

The sciatic nere, situated at the back of the hip joint is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pains which shoot down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The trouble is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain. The best way to get relief from the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced, if not almost banished, all pain and soreness. Continue faithfully and in a reasonable time you should be able to work and rest in comfort once again. Sayre's Drug Store keeps Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2. in stock all the time and sells lots of it. —Adv.

PUPILS HEAR RADIO STORY OF BASEBALL GAME AT ASSEMBLY

Feeling that the baseball world's series is a great American event and therefore officials are justified in recognizing it in the schools, the play-by-play account of the opening game of the 1927 classic between the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Yankees, was heard over radio by about 600 students at the Central High School building for four innings Wednesday afternoon.

Pupils of both junior and senior high schools assembled in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium at 1:30 for the radio description of the game.

The assembly was held during a general study period and no regular classes were missed.

A large super-hetrodyne radio, with an RCA 104 loud speaker and an Electro victrola, furnished through the courtesy of the Adair furniture store, was set up on the stage.

Coach Victor Kolb recorded the score by innings on a large blackboard.

Although appearing to display an intelligent interest in the game, the girls, especially, became restless after four innings and students adjourned to their classrooms.

Members of the faculty also took an unusual interest in the contest. No partiality was shown by the children betweenthe National and American League representatives. Students appeared to "root" equally hard for both teams.

Girl students also exhibited an unexpected knowledge of the sport by applauding at the correct intervals. Babe Ruth drew applause whenever he came up to bat.

Some of the students in the stenography classes killed two birds with one stone by taking down the play-by-play account of the game in shorthand.

GATE RECEIPTS FOR SERIES GAMES WILL BE DIVIDED THUS:

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6.—The gate receipts of the world series games will be divided as follows:

Fifteen per cent of the gross receipts of all games goes to the office of Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis. In the first four games, forty per cent of the balance goes to the owners of the two contending clubs and the remaining sixty per cent is divided between the two world series contenders and the teams which finished second, third and fourth in each league.

The players' share is divided as follows:

Seventy per cent of it goes to the world series contenders, three-fifths of it to the winner and two-fifths to the loser, the remaining thirty per cent of the players' share goes to the clubs finishing second, third and fourth in the ration of 50 per cent, 33 1-3 per cent and 16 2-3 per cent.

In all games after the first four, the magnates of the two world series clubs receive eighty-five per cent of the gross receipts.

However, the radio baseball parties in the afternoon will be discontinued, according to Principal Louis Hammerle.

YOUNGSTER PARADES

PARIS, Oct. 6—Gilbert Bettmans, Junior, only seven, was the youngest person in Ohio's delegation in the opening day American Legion parade. Gilbert's father, former Vice Mayor of Cincinnati and past Department Commander of Ohio, was naturally there too.

AIRPLANE DRUMMER COMING TO XENIA

George May, territorial manager of the Alexander Industries, Denver, Colo., who covers his territory of twelve states by air, will land in an Eaglerock plane, at the White House Barbecue flying field, Springfield Pike, within the next few days.

Mr. May will come to Xenia on business and will take several Xenia business men on flights while here. R. C. Shrader, nationally known pilot, who finished second in the New York-Spokane race, will pilot the Eaglerock plane, it is announced.

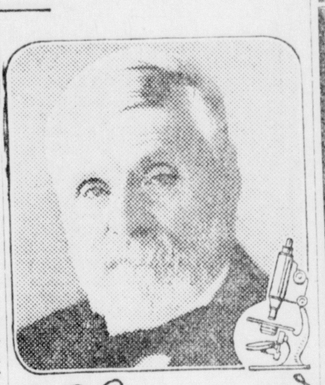

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

When Dr. Caldwell started to practive medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constpation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE. —Adv.

IS THERE NO RELIEF FROM SKIN TORTURE?

Must I Continue to Suffer the Unbearable Itching?

Are you one of those unfortunates who are going through life suffering with a skin disease, making you uncomfortable, making you less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in many forms of skin disease. Thousands of letters of gratitude prove its worth.

"I feel so happy for what S.S.S. has done for me that I want others to know about it. I suffered twenty long years from eczema. At times the itching was unbearable. During that time, I used all kinds of salves without receiving any real benefit. After taking six bottles of S.S.S., I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S.S.S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me." Cleophas Forte, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger is more economical.

The Smooth and Mighty Power of the Steam Engine

High Compression Performance with any Gasoline

In converting waste heat to power, the new companion invention to the Super-Six principle accomplishes the ideal performance of the high-compression type motor that is sought through the use of special and costly fuels.

The Super-Six principle transforms what otherwise is destructive vibration into useful power. The companion invention converts waste heat to power. Combined they afford the highest efficiency in power generation and transmission ever achieved within our knowledge. This makes Hudson the most economical car per pound weight in the world.

No wonder such performance results have won for Hudson its greatest triumph. Hudson offers a genuinely new kind of performance. Drive it and you will know.

There is a full line of Hudson Super-Six models on the 127-inch Super-Six chassis. And with the new 119-inch chassis, a duplicate of the larger car in all particulars save length, there is also a car for those who want such signal quality and performance in a shorter, more compact car.

HUNGRY CHILDREN GIVEN NOURISHING MEALS FROM FUNDS

Commenting on the need for funds to feed undernourished children in the Xenia Public Schools, the aim of the drive to be staged by Federated Parent-Teacher Association, next Tuesday, October 11, Miss Edna Bloom, principal of McKinley School, said Thursday:

"Three thousand and fifty-one lunches were served to McKinley pupils last year. This could and should have been a much larger number. Because of the cost we selected only those who appeared to be suffering most. In every case the homes of these pupils were investigated by the school or a social worker. Many times pupils came to school breakfastless or had eaten food that stimulated for a short time rather than nourished.

"Before we had these organizations that now help us to solve, at least in part, these problems, teachers have kept jars of crackers and fruit in their cupboards to give to the child crying because of hunger. Often in those days and still occasionally, a teacher in our building has sent a child to her home for a warm breakfast or taken him home at noon for a real lunch.

"The hungry boy is a sick boy. He cannot attend. He is not alert. The more fortunate child also suffers since he must wait until this child, who is slower because of physical rather than mental conditions has performed the task assigned by the teacher."

YOUNG RESCUER MISSES HERO MEDAL

NEW YORK CITY.—It was a stormy sea. Waves beat six feet high. Two boys struggled vainly to swim back to shore after their canoe capsized. Here was a real chance for young Arthur Benson to prove himself a hero and win a medal maybe. He jumped in his canoe and brought the two victims safely to shore. But hope for a hero medal vanished when the two boys declined to give their names.

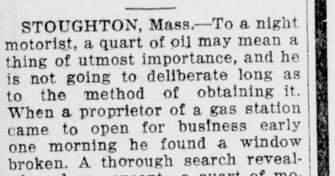

MAY HAVE HAD NO CHANGE

STOUGHTON, Mass.—To a night motorist, a quart of oil may mean a thing of utmost importance, and he is not going to deliberate long as to the method of obtaining it. When a proprietor of a gas station came to open for business early one morning he found a window broken. A thorough search revealed no loss—except—a quart of motor oil.

SCIATIC-NEURITIS

The sciatic nere, situated at the back of the hip joint is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pains which shoot down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The trouble is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain. The best way to get relief from the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced, if not almost banished, all pain and soreness. Continue faithfully and in a reasonable time you should be able to work and rest in comfort once again. Sayre's Drug Store keeps Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2. in stock all the time and sells lots of it. —Adv.

AIRPLANE DRUMMER COMING TO XENIA

George May, territorial manager of the Alexander Industries, Denver, Colo., who covers his territory of twelve states by air, will land in an Eaglerock plane, at the White House Barbecue flying field, Springfield Pike, within the next few days.

Mr. May will come to Xenia on business and will take several Xenia business men on flights while here. R. C. Shrader, nationally known pilot, who finished second in the New York-Spokane race, will pilot the Eaglerock plane, it is announced.

PUPILS HEAR RADIO STORY OF BASEBALL GAME AT ASSEMBLY

Feeling that the baseball world's series is a great American event and therefore officials are justified in recognizing it in the schools, the play-by-play account of the opening game of the 1927 classic between the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Yankees, was heard over radio by about 600 students at the Central High School building for four innings Wednesday afternoon.

Pupils of both junior and senior high schools assembled in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium at 1:30 for the radio description of the game.

The assembly was held during a general study period and no regular classes were missed.

A large super-hetrodyne radio, with an RCA 104 loud speaker and an Electro victrola, furnished through the courtesy of the Adair furniture store, was set up on the stage.

Coach Victor Kolb recorded the score by innings on a large blackboard.

Although appearing to display an intelligent interest in the game, the girls, especially, became restless after four innings and students adjourned to their classrooms.

Members of the faculty also took an unusual interest in the contest. No partiality was shown by the children betweenthe National and American League representatives. Students appeared to "root" equally hard for both teams.

Girl students also exhibited an unexpected knowledge of the sport by applauding at the correct intervals. Babe Ruth drew applause whenever he came up to bat.

Some of the students in the stenography classes killed two birds with one stone by taking down the play-by-play account of the game in shorthand.

However, the radio baseball parties in the afternoon will be discontinued, according to Principal Louis Hammerle.

GATE RECEIPTS FOR SERIES GAMES WILL BE DIVIDED THUS:

PITTSBURGH, Oct., 6.—The gate receipts of the world series games will be divided as follows:

Fifteen per cent of the gross receipts of all games goes to the office of Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis. In the first four games, forty per cent of the balance goes to the owners of the two contending clubs and the remaining sixty per cent is divided between the two world series contenders and the teams which finished second, third and fourth in each league.

The players' share is divided as follows:

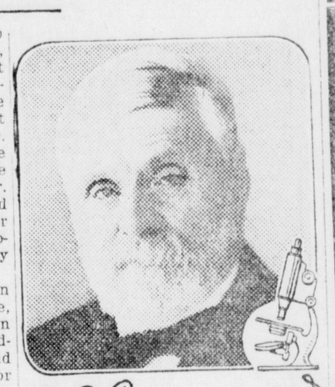

Seventy per cent of it goes to the world series contenders, three-fifths of it to the winner and two-fifths to the loser, the remaining thirty per cent of the players' share goes to the clubs finishing second, third and fourth in the ration of 50 per cent, 33 1-3 per cent and 16 2-3 per cent.

In all games after the first four, the magnates of the two world series clubs receive eighty-five per cent of the gross receipts.

YOUNGSTER PARADES

PARIS, Oct. 6—Gilbert Bettmans, Junior, only seven, was the youngest person in Ohio's delegation in the opening day American Legion parade. Gilbert's father, former Vice Mayor of Cincinnati and past Department Commander of Ohio, was naturally there too.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

Dr. W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

When Dr. Caldwell started to practive medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constpation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE. —Adv.

THE LADY CALLED FATE

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS

BY JOSEPHINE K. LITTLEJOHN

©1927 CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N

JOHN MOORE, New York business man, goes to Tucson, Ariz., on business, expecting to return to New York the next day. He meets a college associate, Philip Morton, who has business in Mexico. Both drink heavily of tequila and in the subsequent mixup in identity Moore finds himself in Mexico.

He has in his possession a portrait of a girl which had been Morton's. The girl, Ruth Henshaw, sends her ambassador, Ramon, to tell the supposed Morton that she will meet him at the church at Tubutama. She needs his help. He meets her, also Clench, an associate of her uncle's, and all go to the ranch.

John meets Manuel Lopez, Roderiguez and Barton Henshaw, the uncle. He tells them all that he is John Moore, not Paul Morton. They do not believe him, and proceed with their plans which involve the illegal importation of arms into Mexico.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE.

Out in the moonlit garden—where only the melancholy call of a little Mexican dove broke the lovely hush of the night—John Moore was waiting.

He waited impatiently. Having discovered, upon leaving the dining room, that Ruth Henshaw had disappeared for the night, he was impatient to be done with the night himself. In the morning he could see her again and tell her—what?

That her uncle, in spite of what he had told her, was very much involved in an illicit scheme of gun running? Not he. Neither would he, for worlds, let her guess that Roderiguez had boasted of her as his affianced bride nor that her uncle, either dead to shame or dumb with fear, had not denied the boast. He would have to tell her that he had failed to discover just what hold Roderiguez had upon her uncle. That it accounted for Mr. Henshaw's acquiescence in Roderiguez's designs upon Ruth, John was now convinced. But as to what exactly this hold was, he was still in ignorance.

Pacing up and down, now in the moonlight, now in the shadows of the pepper trees, he had pondered long on the relationship of the two men. Some disgrace in Mr. Henshaw's past might account for it. Or again Henshaw might have—but Henshaw was not the man whose actions, past or future, were of greatest concern to John Moore just now. There was Roderiguez.

With the Ambassador and Wong as his friends and Morton's two automatics safe in his pockets, John was at first inclined to hope for an open fight with Roderiguez. A few of the tricks he had learned in dull hours at Fort Sill might, after all, be useful. And it would be interesting to see if Roderiguez would, when pushed to extremities, drop his mask of open animosity and reveal that more sinister evilness which John had sensed at the dinner table. John could not remember ever having felt anything like it before. It certainly would be interesting to see—but there was the girl. If, by any chance, anything should happen to him and she should be left at the mercy of Roderiguez and Morton—

He turned from the thought abruptly. Where this girl was concerned he would take no chances. She should leave the ranch with him as early as possible in the morning. In Roderiguez's car if he could manage it, on horseback if he could not. In any case she should leave. He must see the Ambassador about that tonight.

And then he had glanced impatiently down the hill to where the candles on the table still glimmered through the dining room windows. Until that conference should be over he would not leave the garden. He confessed to himself that he was vaguely uneasy about what was transpiring down there. And yet as long as they believed him to be Morton—and here he grinned to himself—believed it in spite of his protestations to the contrary, their hands were tied. What could they do? Nothing. Let them plan. Tonight they could do nothing. Tomorrow he and the girl would be gone.

Having decided this he determined to wait no longer in carrying out his own design. His patience had come to an end. Keeping in the shadow except where forced to mount the terrace steps in bright moonlight he gained the porch of the hilltop house and walked quietly along it to his door. "I have to pass all of their doors," he mused. "And they will leave them open for air. I will climb up this end of the porch if I can do it quietly enough."

He found the Ambassador's rope neatly coiled in his clothes closet and carried it down the steps to the topmost terrace. "Luckily the swimming pool is not on my side," he thought. "I have plenty of shade trees over here. I'll just try climbing that porch right now."

His greatest difficulty was the shrubs, which grew thick against it. He endeavored to bend them noiselessly aside and slip through but his rope made this difficult. It was constantly catching somewhere. At length, however, he won through to the foundation wall of the porch. He blessed his luck when he found it to be built of rough stones. "With both hands free I could climb this without a sound. Maybe I can push the rope over the top—By Jove, I can just do it." He stood on tiptoe and edged the coil of rope onto the floor of the porch. It slid forward noiselessly on the smooth cement. And John with little difficulty followed it.

He now carried the rope down to the terrace again. There he climbed with one end of it some twenty feet above ground in the pepper tree nearest the wall and fastened it securely to the tree trunk. Then, descending, he found a garden bench and placed it against the wall in the deep shadow of the tree. By standing on this he was able to drop the rest of the rope over the wall and to ascertain that he could pull himself up to the top of it.

"No use waiting for those fellows any longer," he said to himself. "I am going over and see the Ambassador—now that I have a sure way of getting back. Same old story! All prepared to get in before I get out. Still— By Jove! If I hadn't done it last night—!" He pulled out the little army wrist watch which he carried nowadays in his pocket and looked at its illuminated dial. It was midnight. Just midnight. This time last night he had been playing poker in Tucson with Beechy and Towner and Long—and Morton was asleep in the corner. There had still been time for him to catch the El Paso train at one o'clock. The thought made him so weak that he sat down on the bench and trembled.

A little breeze blew softly through the pepper tree above him. The quivering festoons of leaves wafted apart, let a moonbeam fall on the gravel at his feet. A white patch of moonlight—John, gazing down at it, saw suddenly, that it was an arch of silver light in the dark shadows. The shadows became the walls of the belfry tower and the arch—against a blue sky—framed a girl with the moonlight glinting on her hair.

He started to his feet and turned toward the tower below in which his lady slept. He was no longer trembling; he was exultant. "No" he cried to himself, "I could not have taken that train. This was meant to be!"

There were the men. He saw them now. A group of black figures by the dining room door. He stood very still and watched them.

They were talking together. Now they turned staring up the hill.

"It is myself they are worrying about," grinned John to himself. "But they can't know I am here."

The group separated. One figure re-entered the house. "That's Henshaw," thought John. The other three were mounting the terrace steps.

Beside the swimming pool Clench stopped. "Damn it!" he exclaimed in loud exasperated tones. "That fellow has my watch."

"Your watch?" It was Roderiguez speaking now. "Who has it?"

"Moore. I gave it to him this afternoon when he went out for a walk."

"Get it in the morning."

"I sleep with it where I can see it easy in the night. I want it. I am going to get it now. It won't hurt him to wake up." They mounted the porch steps.

Answers to Correspondents

One Meal a Day

"How many calories in one ordinary yeast cake, and what is the effect of saccharin on the system? I take two grains of it a day. Of course, I am petersizing after a fashion, but I disobey you in a great many ways, for I take but one meal a day—no breakfast or lunch—but still I am losing satisfactorily. B."

First, let me say that you're not disobeying me by taking one meal a day if you prefer it that way, and find it agrees with you, B. I have told you to distribute your calories the way you like best, and if you want them all in one meal, hop to it!

When I was considerably younger I tried that one-meal-a-day stunt. We were living in a little country town and every morning we used to see how far we could go toward the post office, which was about a mile away, on a jog trot. We finally succeeded in going all the way. I was getting a lot of physical exercise, and I didn't know anything about calories then, and in the one meal I ate, I used to stack up a-plenty. However, I succeeded in getting rid of the accumulation I wanted to. After we moved from the country and I wasn't getting the long jog-trot exercises, I got another little attack of expansion and I again tried the one-meal stunt, eating as much as when I was getting the exercise. It didn't work this time.

But I don't think the one-meal-a-day plan is very good, B. We are advising so much bulky food now, in the vegetables and fruits, and at least two glasses of skim milk so that the full amount needed for the day would, if taken in one meal, distend the stomach.

A yeast cake is 20 C (ordinarily half an ounce). Yeast is high in vitamin B. I like the yeast extracts better and they are equally high in vitamin B and make delicious broths. One level teaspoon of the extract will make a good broth and counts not more than five calories. You could take this broth several times a day, if you felt hungry.

Saccharin is allowed to diabetics by some diabetic specialists up to two or three grains a day; others believe this amount may be harmful. It is a coal tar product, 300 to 500 times sweeter than sugar. Hadn't you better learn to like your liquids unsweetened?

Causes of Eruptive Fevers

C.—You say that the eruptive fevers, such as measles, chickenpox, smallpox, scarlet fever, are all produced by different poisons which have accumulated in the body by the wrong habits of life.

No, not true, C. While we know that "wrong habits of life" do lower the resistance so that if one is exposed to eruptive fevers, he may be more susceptible, this is the secondary cause. The primary causes of these diseases are the particular germs which are acquired by the person so exposed, and if these germs happen to be virulent enough and in sufficient quantity, even a perfectly well person can get the disease they engender, just as the bullet will kill or disable a perfectly well person as quickly as a half-dead one.

One attack of some of these eruptive fevers confers immunity for life; that is, one never contracts them again, no matter what their mode of living is, even though they were nursing one very sick with it. If your theory were correct, this immunity would not develop.

am L. Warner, vice-president Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., ion picture producers, died in Angeles, Wednesday. Death caused by pneumonia, follow- ing an attack of sinus trouble. Sam Warner, with his brothers, Harry, Jack and Abe, broke into the motion picture business twenty-three years ago when the industry was in its embryo state. Inspired by the sight of crowds visiting a Pittsburgh "Nickelodeon," Sam and Harry rented an old storehouse in Newcastle, Pa., rented chairs from an undertaker and opened their first house. They rented their films until they decided that buying them was a better proposition. Then they bought a trunk full of pictures for $500 and opened the industry's first distributor's exchange. Before long they were making $2,500 a week.

Forced out of business soon afterward by the General Film Company, Sam and Abe came to New York and formed their own producing company. Some time later they were offered the general managership of General Films at a big salary and a bonus if they wanted to quit the producing field. They turned down the offer. From this foundation the Warner Brothers Corporation has grown until the organization, capitalized at millions, has its own laboratories, studios on the western coast and also in the east. Several smaller companies have been absorbed, the latest being the old Vitagraph, the last of the old guard film makers to quit active production. Sam Warner and his brothers were the first producers to adopt the perfected speaking pictures, introducing the Vitaphone to New York and later to other cities, after the device had been produced by the American Telephone & Telegraph Company's laboratories in 1925.

YANKS BEAT PIRATES SECOND TIME

PITTSBURGH TAKES FIELD SECOND TIME STILL OPTIMISTIC

Pirates Think Curve Ball Pitching Can Stop Yanks

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 6.—One down to the New York Yankees in the World Series but not at all discouraged, the Pittsburgh Pirates today were grimly determined to square accounts with the Yanks at Forbes Field this afternoon. With that objective in view Manager Donie Bush indicated he would send the veteran Vic Aldridge in to pitch against Babe Ruth and the other New York sluggers. John Gooch probably will catch Aldridge.

George Pipgras and Pat Collins will undoubtedly be the battery for the Yankees, Manager Miller Huggins announced.

Neither Manager Bush or the Pirates were discouraged by the 5 to 4 defeat of the Pirates in the opening game before 41,467 fans. "I think it will be one victory apiece by nightfall," Bush declared this morning. "I think our pitchers can stop the Yanks."

The strategy of the Pittsburgh pitchers now seems to be to "curve ball" the Yankee sluggers. Almost two out of three balls so far thrown to the Yanks have been curves and while Pittsburgh came out on the wrong end of the score yesterday the Yanks were able to make only six hits, three of them by Ruth, all singles. The Pirates got nine hits. The Pittsburgh club is now convinced that the Yanks do not like curves.

But the Yanks think otherwise. "It won't be long now," said Ruth this morning. "I feel 'hot.' I've got to hit some longer ones but I'm not kicking on those singles I made. I like Kremer's pitching. My first two hits clicked just right and I would have got another off Kremer the third time up, I think, if I hadn't slipped as I was swinging."

Ruth praised the Waner brothers Lloyd and Paul, as "a couple of good ball players," adding: "They sure popped a few out my way."

Joe Harris, Pirate's first baseman, expressed the general sentiment of the Pittsburgh team when he said: "Any team that gets five runs on six hits is mighty lucky. Aside from Ruth, we had those heavy hitters stopped in their tracks. Kremer will get better support next time and he'll know better how to pitch to Ruth."

Ray Kremer, the Pirate's pitching ace, was greatly disappointed at his showing but said he expect-

The county remained quiet during the night, according to reports.

CHRISTIAN FORCED TO CONFESS CHRIST TO EARN SALVATION

Dr. Biederwolf Heard By Football Squad Wednesday Night

"A professed Christian has to acknowledge Jesus if he expects to enter the portals of heaven. There is no half way proposition to acknowledging Jesus. Every man or woman has to be either for Him or against Him. The greatest business in the world is the business of getting right with God."

In making these statements, Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, evangelist at the First M. E. Church pointed out that salvation was the only way to his Wednesday evening audience, when he talked on "Confessing Christ." The subject was based on Romans 10th chapter and ninth verse, "Because if thou shall confess with thy mouth Jesus as Lord, and shalt believe in thy heart that God raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved."

"Every man right or wrong should have the courage to stand up for what he or she believes to be right. Some men are proud of being members of certain organizations, and do not hesitate to

GRAND JURY RETURNS ONLY TWO INDICTMENTS AFTER TWO DAYS

Reports True Bills Against Mont Smallwood And Sanford Miller—Ignores Cornelius Shooting Case.

Two indictments were returned by the October grand jury, which made a complete report at 4:35 o'clock Wednesday afternoon after being in session two days.

Eleven cases were considered, forty witnesses were examined, two cases were referred to Juvenile Court, one case was transferred to Probate Court and six cases were ignored by the jury.

Indictments were returned against Mont Smallwood, Cedarville, on a charge of assault, and against Sanford Miller, colored, for larceny.

Smallwood was bound over by Mayor D. H. McFarland, Cedarville, charged with assaulting and wounding Frank Jeffry May 30, the outgrowth of the alleged action of Smallwood in tormenting a dog.

Miller was held to the grand jury August 16 on the larceny charge by J. E. Jones, justice of the peace, accused of stealing a load of corn containing forty bushels, valued at $44, from the farm of Bishop J. H. Jones, Wilberforce. Miller was employed as a farm hand.

Case of B. F. Miller, bound over from the court of Theodore Longenecker, Bath Twp., justice of the peace, on a charge of shooting Frank Creighton with intent to kill, June 18, was transferred to Probate Court. A mental inquest will probably be held as his mentality is reported to have been affected, a de-

GEORGE REMUS MURDERS WIFE

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 6.—Climaxing several years of domestic strife and litigation with his wife, Mrs. Imogene Holmes Remus, 38, George Remus who gained nation-wide notoriety as "King of the Bootleggers," pulled his wife from a taxi cab in Eden Park here today shot and fatally wounded her, then surrendered to police. Mrs. Remus died at 10:45 a. m.

The dramatic climax to the Remus' domestic warfare came as Mrs. Remus was enroute to domestic relations court, where a hearing of her divorce petition against the former bootlegger, who served terms in the Atlanta federal penitentiary and later in the county jail at Troy, O., for violation of the prohibition laws, was scheduled this morning.

Mrs. Remus filed the divorce suit nearly a year ago, shortly after Remus was released from federal prison.

SUSPECT IN MURDER OF PHYSICIAN HELD AFTER LONG SEARCH

Poultry Dealer May Be Called Before Grand Jury

MAYS LANDING, Oct. 6.—Willis Beach, Vineland poultry dealer, sought on a warrant charging him with aiding and abetting in the murder of Dr. William Lilliendahl near here, three weeks ago, today surrendered to Captain William Carter of the state police here and was locked up in the Atlantic County Jail.

Prosecutor Louis I. Repetto said today he was not certain whether Beach would be called to testify before the grand jury, which will meet this afternoon to consider evidence in the case.

The prosecutor said he was equally uncertain whether Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, widow of the slain man, would be called to testify today, although she has been subpoenaed.

Captain Carter and two other members of the state police met Beach walking with his attorney, Edison Hedges, towards Mays Landing on the Weymouth Road.

After a brief conference between Carter and Hedges Beach was formally arrested on the warrant and taken to the county jail.

Beach had been missing for more than a week. State troopers and county detectives scoured the countryside for the elusive poultry dealer on a warrant issued soon after his disappearance from his Vineland home.

He disappeared on the day that three men from Morrisville, Pa., were to have faced him to say whether he was the man they saw driving a blue coupe out of Great Meadow near Hammonton, soon after Dr. Lilliendahl was shot and killed. Beach owns a blue coupe.

BABE FAILS HOME RUN LOVERS

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6.—Although he disappointed thousands of fans by failing to clout a home run after so nearly solving the slants of Ray Kremer and John Miljus, Pirate pitchers, as to get three hits, Babe Ruth, with Paul Waner, Pirate right-fielder, is today leading in World Series hitting, his percentage for the first game being .750.

This is something new for the Bambino. The records show his batting average for the seven big post season series he participated in prior to this year was .253.

Babe's record in other World Series:

	G.	AB.	R.	H.	Pct.
1915	1	1	0	0	.000
1916	1	5	0	0	.000
1918	3	5	0	1	.200
1921	6	16	3	5	.313
1922	5	17	1	2	.118
1923	6	19	8	7	.368
1926	7	20	6	6	.300
Total	29	83	18	21	.253

In the present series Ruth has been at bat four times, got three hits and scored two runs. In the first game he was not walked once.

The plane was compelled to land by fog which made navigation difficult. One of the passengers is a woman—Lilly Dillenz—an Austrian actress.

The Portuguese destroyer Guadana was ordered to Santa Cruz Beach to aid the plane.

A report had been received earlier in the day that the plane was missing somewhere off Cape Roca and that three Portuguese warships were searching for it.

PAUL FULLER, FILM DIRECTOR, FALLS TO DEATH

Tragedy Occurs At Party Given In His Honor

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—A gay party in the apartment of Miss Helen Greene, motion picture actress, at the exclusive Park Central Hotel, came to a tragic climax early today when Paul Fairfax Fuller, 29, well-known motion picture director, fell to his death on the roof of a rotunda nine floors below. Police believe that Fuller toppled out of the window by accident.

His absence was unnoticed in the Greene apartment for an hour and a half.

While detectives below sought to solve the mystery of his identity and determine from whence he had fallen, Fuller's friends continued their celebration upstairs. They had met to congratulate Fuller upon his success in directing a new picture.

The party, consisting of motion picture actresses and men connected with the motion picture industry, learned of the tragedy only when police knocked on the door to make an inquiry.

Miss Greene became hysterical. She could give no explanation for the accident, except that the director might have gone to a window for air and lost his balance.

Fuller is a nephew of Paul Fuller, a former president of the Pathe Film Company. He had a wife, Mrs. Helen Fuller, twenty-seven, and a fifteen-months-old daughter, Helen. Mrs. Fuller is in a state of collapse.

LAZZERI SUFFERS INJURED WRIST

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6—Tony Lazzeri, second baseman of the New York Yankees will play against the Pirates today with his right wrist tightly bandaged. The wrist was injured when Lazzeri tagged out Grantham in the second inning yesterday. The two players collided so heavily that Lazzeri's wrist required medical attention after the game.

Waite Hoyt, New York pitcher who was knocked out of the box, suffered a badly blistered finger on his pitching hand as a result of attempting to put too much "stuff" on the ball.

These injuries increased New York's hospital list to three, as Herb Pennock was hit on the knee by a line drive in batting practice before the series started. Mark Koenig, Yankee shortstop, was knocked dizzy in a collision with Traynor yesterday, but was not hurt badly.

KING BORIS OF BULGARIA PLANS TO WED ITALIAN PRINCESS

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Official circles in Rome were engaged today in completing arrangements for the imminent betrothal of the Princess Giovanna, third daughter of the king and queen of Italy, to King Boris, of Bulgaria, according to a Daily Mail dispatch from the Italian capital.

Although official confirmation is lacking, well informed circles reported the announcement of the royal engagement would be forthcoming as soon as certain religious difficulties were ironed out. The princess is a Roman Catholic and Boris is a member of the Greek Orthodox Church.

Reports were that discussion of the religious question was the object of the visit of King Boris to the Pope yesterday, the Bulgarian monarch hoping to arrange a solution similar to that used when the Italian princess Mafalda married the prince of Hesse, a protestant.

The wedding is looked upon as perfectly in accord with Italy's policy of extending her power and prestige in the Balkans.

FANS LISTEN TO WORLD SERIES RADIO PARTY

Fans parked in the shade across the street, sat in automobiles or lingered in the warm rays of an October sun in front of the Gazette Bldg., Wednesday afternoon at the Gazette's radio party.

They listened to the opening game of the World Series, won by the New York Yankees 5 to 4 over the Pittsburgh Pirates, through the elaborate broadcasting arrangements made by this paper.

The play by play story of the game as told by Graham MacNamee, leading announcer, from his vantage point in the stands at Forbes Field, was received on a radio instrument in the editorial room of the Gazette and relayed through a giant horn with an RCA 104 loud-speaker, biggest volume producing instrument available.

The loud speaker increases the sound volume from the six tube receiving instrument so that any fan within reasonable distance of the horn was within good reception area of the radio report. At the same time Phil Frame, sports editor, using head-phone receivers, took down the play-by-play account by innings and the complete story of the game was carried in the final edition of The Evening Gazette.

A large painted banner surrounds the broadcasting horn on the front of the Gazette Bldg., announcing the radio party. The banner will be used for other radio parties given by this paper and pedestrians who read while they walk will know when a special program is being broadcast.

The World Series games will be broadcast every afternoon and fans are invited to take up their places anywhere within hearing distance.

FORBES FIELD, Oct. 6.—Those slugging, slashing New York Yankees, intent on sewing up the world's championship in as short a time as possible, came out to the ball yard here this afternoon and administered to the dumbfounded Pittsburgh Pirates their second defeat in as many days. The score was 6 to 2.

One big inning enabled the Gothamites to win and another inning almost caused them to lose. This was in the first when Pipgras permitted the Pirates to get off to a one-run advantage but a big third enabled the visiting clouters to forge ahead and stay there.

Pipgras pitched ably outside the bad first inning. In that stanza Lloyd Waner opened with a triple down the third base line and scored when Barnhart skied to Ruth in deep center. Paul Waner fanned and Wright flied to Ruth.

Combs opened the Yankee third with a single and was followed by Koenig's single. Combs scored and Koenig reached third when L. Waner kicked the ball around in centerfield. Ruth sacrificed Koenig home and Gehrig doubled. Gehrig took third and Meusel's single and scored on Lazzeri's sacrifice fly. Dugan skied out to retire the side.

The advantage was enough to let the Yanks win, with Pipgras pitching the way he was. Reversing their performance at the opener, the Yankees out-hit the Pirates, easily solving Aldridge's curves when hits meant runs while they again performed capably in defense of their own hurler.

With the game sewed up the Yanks added insult to injury when Aldridge went up in the air in the eighth. Cvengros replaced him but the visitors had a field day scoring three more runs. A Pirate rally in the eighth resulted in one run.

The attendance was 47,634.

FIRST INNING

New York—Combs went out on a high fly to Barnhart. Koenig drove a single over second. Ruth struck out, swinging hard at the third one. Gehrig walked. Meusel out, Aldridge to Harris. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Pittsburgh—L. Waner knocked a triple down the third base line. Barnhart hit a long sacrifice fly to Ruth, L. Waner scoring after the catch. P. Waner fanned. Ruth took Wright's long fly. One run, one hit, no errors.

SECOND INNING

New York—Lazzeri bounced a single off Aldridge's glove. Dugan fouled to Gooch. Bengough also fouled to Gooch. Pipgras lined to Grantham. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Traynor bounced to Pipgras, who tossed him out at first. Grantham singled to center. Harris grounded to Gehrig, who touched first for an unassisted putout. Grantham took second. Gooch fouled to Bengough. No runs, one hit, no errors.

THIRD INNING

New York—Combs hit safely between first and second. Koenig singled past second and Combs scored and Koenig reached third when L. Waner fumbled the ball in centerfield. Ruth raised a high sacrifice fly to L. Waner, Koenig scoring after the catch. "Columbia Lou" Gehrig doubled between center and right, the ball rolling to the barrier. Meusel singled past Wright, who made a wonderful stop but was in no position to throw. Gehrig went to third. Lazzeri hit a short sacrifice fly to right, and Gehrig slid home safely. Gooch fumbled the throwin. Meusel took second on the play. Dugan flied to P. Waner. Three runs, four hits, one error.

Pittsburgh—Lazzeri moved back and made a difficult catch of Aldridge's short liner. Lazzeri tossed out L. Waner. Barnhart placed a single over second. Meusel gathered in P. Waner's long fly after backing to the scoreboard. No runs, one hit, no errors.

FOURTH INNING

New York—Bengough flied to L. Waner on the first ball pitched. Pipgras fanned, swinging. Combs was also retired on strikes. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Pittsburgh fans begin the old "lock-step" clapping in hopes of a rally. Wright lifted a fly to Combs. Traynor knocked a double between center and left. Combs made a fine stop and threw to second but Traynor slid into the bag safely. Dugan made a spectacular catch of a foul fly by Grantham. He leaned far over the boxes near third base and caught the ball with his gloved hand. Harris flied to Ruth. No runs, one hit, no errors.

FIFTH INNING

New York—P. Waner camped under Koenig's fly. Ruth walked on four pitched balls. L. Waner went back to the barrier to take Gehrig's long fly. Ruth went to second after the catch. Meusel struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Gooch out, Pipgras to Gehrig. Aldridge fouled to Bengough. L. Waner soared to Combs. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SIXTH INNING

New York—Lazzeri lofted to P. Waner. Dugan singled over third on the first pitched ball. Bengough raised a high fly to L. Waner, Dugan holding first. Pipgras hit a short single, Dugan taking second. L. Waner made a sensational running catch of Combs' long drive, taking the ball over his shoulder near the centerfield barrier while going at top speed. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Combs made a nice jumping catch of Barnhart's liner. P. Waner hit safely between second and third. Koenig got one hand on the ball. Wright lifted a short fly to Combs. Traynor bounced to Koenig, who stepped on second, forcing P. Waner. No runs, one hit, no errors.

SEVENTH INNING

New York—Koenig hit a long fly to P. Waner. Ruth grounded to Harris, who ran over and touched the bag. Gehrig out, Aldridge to Harris. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Grantham knocked a two-bagger, the ball striking the right-field barrier. Ruth played the ball perfectly and held him to two bases. Harris out, Koenig to Gehrig, Grantham holding second. Gooch lined to Lazzeri, who doubled Grantham off second. No runs, one hit, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING

New York—Meusel hit safely through the pitcher's box. Lazzeri hit a "Texas Leaguer" in right field, putting Meusel on third. Meusel scored on a wild pitch by Aldridge. Gooch partially stopped the ball, but Meusel beat him to the bag. Dugan dumped a bunt in front of the plate and beat it out. Gooch tossed the ball to third and Lazzeri was out when he overslid the base. It was scored a fielder's choice. Bengough walked. Aldridge lost control and also passed Pipgras, filling the bases. Cvengros, a southpaw replaced Aldridge in the box. Combs was hit by a pitched ball, forcing in Dugan, and leaving the bases still clogged. Koenig singled to left, Bengough scoring. The bases are still fully populated. Ruth grounded to Grantham, who threw to Gooch, forcing Pipgras at the plate. Gehrig hit the first ball pitched to Traynor, who stepped on third forcing Koenig. Three runs, three hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Pittsburgh fans are booing because Cuyler is not permitted to bat for Cvengros. Smith, batting for the pitcher, rolled to Gehrig, who touched first. L. Waner walked. Barnhart singled to center, driving L. Waner to third. P. Waner raised a sacrifice fly to Meusel, L. Waner scoring after the catch. Wright drove to Koenig, who ran over and touched second, forcing Barnhart. One run, one hit, no errors.

NINTH INNING

New York—Dawson now pitching for Pittsburgh. Meusel hit to Wright, who fumbled the ball momentarily and the batter reached first on the error. Lazzeri flied to L. Waner, Meusel holding first. L. Waner also took Dugan's fly after a short run. Bengough hit to Wright as Meusel stole second and the latter was thrown out at third. No runs, no hits, one error.

Pittsburgh — Traynor drove a long fly to Combs. Grantham struck out, swinging hard at the third one. Harris hit to Pipgras, who ran over a touched first for an unassisted putout. No runs, no hits, no errors.

XENIA VOITURE TO HELP CAMPAIGN TO RECONDITION SHIP

Attention of members of Xenia Voiture, No. 140, Forty and Eight Society, is being called to the nation-wide campaign in progress to raise sufficient funds to recondition the frigate U. S. S. Constitution as a naval relic, and fit her out exactly as she was in the days of 1812.

Success of the present campaign depends on the sale of a beautiful ten color lithograph of Gordon Grant's oil painting of "Old Ironsides." These lithographs are being sold for 25 cents each, though they are worth several dollars.

More than half a million copies of this painting have been sold. To recondition and take care of this old warship in the future, the national committee of the naval department expects to sell at least three million.

Members of the Xenia Voiture and the public are asked to assist in this patriotic undertaking by purchasing a print.

A sample painting has been received by Paul A. Fuller, chef de gare of Xenia Voiture, who has had it framed. It will be on display the latter part of this week at the Criterion clothing store, S. Detroit St. Herman Wells, clerk in the store, acting for the local Voiture, will accept names of subscribers on order blanks. Upon receipts of orders, the United States naval department will forward to each individual a reproduction of the painting.

The Constitution, when rebuilt and refitted, will be towed to every port possible in the United States, to be shown to the public.

The American Legion is sponsoring the campaign and the Forty and Eight Society endorses it.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. —Adv.

TRUAX VISTS FISH HATCHERY SITES IN COUNTY WEDNESDAY

Agriculture Chief Inspects Farms With Williamson

Charles V. Truax, state director of agriculture, who accompanied Representative R. D. Williamson to Xenia Wednesday from Columbus, inspected the availability of three sites for the proposed location of a fish hatchery in Greene County.

Truax was most favorably impressed with the old waterworks, reservoir on the farm of Dr. D. E. Spahr, Springfield Pike, but considered the purchase price of $15,000 for the site "out of the question," according to Representative Williamson.

A spring on the Paul James farm, on a cross road between the Columbus Pike and the Wilberforce and Clifton Pike, and the Dewine property on the Springfield Pike opposite the city waterworks plant, were also inspected as possible sites for the hatchery.

Truax said that the state expects to invest at least $15,000 in the erection of a hatchery. For that reason, the state does not intend to go to great expense in the purchase of a site.

The twenty-two acre Spahr farm is considered more conveniently located for the hatchery, as it is easily accessible from a main highway and is centrally located. Truax asked Dr. Spahr to reconsider the price quoted for purchase of the property. As less than half the twenty-two acres will be needed to meet the needs of a hatchery, a reduction in the price of the land may meet with favorable consideration, it is thought.

Truax was also impressed with the spring on the Paul James farm. The owner is said to be willing to donate five or six acres of land to the state for a hatchery. However, the site is inconveniently situated.

No price was quoted to the agricultural director for the purchase of about eight acres to the Dewine property on the Springfield Pike. The land is for sale, however.

The state director did not visit the John Bryan farm near Yellow Springs, owned by the state, but this tract has virtually been abandoned as a site for the hatchery, due to the presense of porous limestone which will not hold water.

ANNOUNCE PROGRAM FOR SCHOOL LYCEUM COURSE THIS YEAR

Six attractive numbers have been arranged on the 1927-28 Xenia High School Lyceum Course, being announced by school officials.

Sale of tickets for the course starts Monday, October 10. Adult tickets will cost $2.50 and students, by sitting in the balcony, may purchase special season tickets for $1.

Extraordinary entertainment is promised this year, featured by a lecture by Charlie Paddock, who has been world's champion short distance sprinter for seven years.

Paddock has an unusual athletic record and has established thirty-eight out of a possible forty new records in short distance running during his career. Besides his athletic accomplishments, he is also a writer and journalist.

A program made up of fun, music and mystery, will be offered by Taylor and Keylor, to be presented as the third number of the course December 6.

The Kater Duo is scheduled for the fourth number January 12, 1928. James Kater, magician, and Mrs. Grace Kater, soprano, pianist, reader, whistler, and accordionist will entertain with an evening of magic, music and fun.

Zellner, in his "Flashes from Life," will appear for the fifth number March 20, 1928. Zellner is a characterist and gives fine portrayals of Biblical characters.

The concluding number will be presented March 29, when Chief Strongheart will deliver a lecture on "From Peace Pipe to War Trail." Chief Strongheart was born on the Yakina reservation in 1887.

This warm weather is playing tricks on a cherry tree at the home of W. P. McKay, W. Third St. The tree is budding for the second time with new leaves and blossoms, all set for another crop of fruit this season.

The tree bore one crop of nice cherries, shed its leaves, thinking summer was a thing of the past and when Old Sol staged a come-back, thought it would turn the trick again this season, and put on a spring-like garb of light green leaves and pink and white blossoms.

EX-XENIANS CLAIM CONNECTION WITH LABOR DAY FOUNDER

"Labor Day," now observed as a national holiday, has more than the average significance to Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Kyle, Pasadena, Calif., formerly of Xenia, it is learned.

It recently became known that Mr. and Mrs. Kyle are the closest surviving relatives of the "Father of Labor Day."

The measure making Labor Day a national holiday was first introduced in Congress in 1892, by the late James Henderson Kyle, United States senator from South Dakota. One of Senator Kyle's first official acts after being elected by the Populist party in 1891 to succeed Gideon C. Moody, was to introduce the Labor Day proposal.

Mr. and Mrs. Kyle, first cousins of the "Father of Labor Day," reside now at 347 Galena Ave., Pasadena, Calif., and have lived there for the last eight years, after moving from Mansfield, O., in 1919. Mr. and Mrs. Kyle were also themselves distant cousins before marriage.

Senator Kyle's measure making Labor Day nationally observed, was enacted as a law in 1894, but at first was bitterly fought in Congress. However, sentiment was strong for the measure and it was followed by similar legislation in the various states. Senator Kyle died in 1901.

Mr. Kyle many years ago was a partner in a jewelry firm on S. Detroit St. and is now associated with a large watch repair firm at Pasadena. He is a cousin of T. Dales Kyle, this city, and has a number of other relatives in Greene County.

Care of Babies

This baby has never had a day's sickness and never a cross or fretful spell that lasted an hour. And what do you suppose is responsible for this healthy, happy condition? Not diet, fer he has eaten just about anything and everything a child could eat. Not drugs, for he has not been dosed with opiates; he has never had a drop of paregoric. Nor has his sensible mother ever made him taste castor oil. Yet his nerves are sound and his little bowels are strong, and when he does seem the least restless or wakeful, or out of sorts—or likely to be—his mother has him all serene again in ten or fifteen minutes!

The secret of this complete freedom from the many ills and upsets so common to infants? Plain old-fashioned Castoria. A million and more mothers swear by Castoria, and no wonder! A few drops and an approaching fever, colic, diarrhea or consipation seems to vanish in thin air. Castoria is purely vegetable; that is why physicians tell children of any age—the youngest infant. And how they love the taste!

One world of warning; get the pure, real Castoria. Fletcher's Castoria is the original. It is the kind doctors specify. PROFIT IN PETTING Anybody who is in love, affianced or just plain married will be interested in the goings on in Cleveland, where a spooning couple was handed $3,675 damages for false arrest, perpetrated because they were admiring one another in a parked automobile. The night was balmy, the couple also, and a full moon sailed the sky which looked down upon the incident. His sense of propriety offended at the spectacle, the officer in the case refused to believe that the two were honest-to goodness man and wife; and indeed it is not the accepted thing for sober wedded folk to be greatly affected by the moon.

But if they are it is folly to hinder them in any way whatsoever, for there are entirely too many brickbat marriages, and a show of good feeling between man and wife should be heartily encouraged. Yet, it won't do to ignore Madame Grundy too far, and it may be advisable to require spooners to show a marriage certificate before they may be left alone in the moonlight. That will add to the complexity of life, for the average man is already burdened with so many license cards that he will shrink from one card more.

On the other hand, if $3,675 is to be obtained by a judgment against conventionally minded policemen in so easy a fashion the art of necking may be sadly exploited. We hate to see sacred things professionalized. Suppose you could trick yourselves into a false arrest and then get a large lump of damages, the end becomes mercenary and the proceeding all wrong. One sweet kiss from the only girl should be a far more valuable than any amount of gold.

HEROISM NOT FORGOTTEN

The men of the American legion received an even warmer welcome than they expected in France. Where they had had some misgiving that their service had been forgotten, they find that it is not, and that the French people will never forget the sacrifices they made and the heroism they showed.

Devoted and unselfish service does not fail of its reward. When those soldiers were suffering in the almost intolerable trenches, they perhaps felt that it was a thankless task. They find now that they have gained the life long gratitude of the French people.

So it is in all effects for the benefit of one's country and community. The work done may have seemed ill rewarded at the time. But it is appreciated far more than they realized.

COURSHIP AND CRIME

Here, says Judge Charles A. Oberwager, New York City magistrate, is the itemized cost of a young man's evening out with his best girl 15 years ago:

Theatre, balcony seats, $2; candy 60 cents; car fare, 20 cents; sodas, 20 cents. Totals $3.

And this is the cost of a "big evening" for a fast-stepping young couple today:

Orchestra seats for a Broadway revue $15; flowers $6; taxicabs $6; night club supper, from $20 up.

And there, says the judge, you have the reason for much of the youthful crime from embezzlement to banditry.

The American people have not been able to pay proper attention to politics during the past few months, because they were watching the baseball contests, and they won't be able to do so for the next few weeks, because they will be paying attention to football.

After having reflected upon the difficulties and burdens carried by the president, most of us here have chosen not to run for that office.

The Way of the World

NATURE NEVER TIRESOME

Nature never grows stale. She never fails to interest. Nature is full of tricks if you know how to make her perform. Over in Glen Cove, N. Y., there is an apple tree that bears 35 varieties of apples. Grafting operations perform wonders. Burbank knew the tricks. Others are learning. We shall have to learn a lot of things in the next hundred years if the world isn't going to be hungry. Just now population is growing too fast for the food supply.

GARY KNEW

Elbert H. Gary, late head of the U. S. Steel corporation, was not so wrapped up in the processes of making money that he didn't keep in mind the value of education. In his will he set up eight trust funds to provide scholarships in eight colleges. Young people should be interested in this expression of Judge Gary. It's the men who have been through the mill of life who believe most in education. Think that over when you are trying to decide whether you are going to college this fall.

THE TEST

A well known musician, making a speech in Chicago, proposes a new test for the selection of wife or husband. He says:

"Give the prospective bride or bridegroom a $10 bill and have him or her visit a music store. If music dealing with love, home, country or mother is purchased get married by the nearest preacher.

"On the other hand, if the person returns with a lot of hot jazz tunes, jumbled up noises and seditious rhythms and songs with words of questionable meaning, just find the nearest exit and keep on going."

If this man's advice is followed marriages will go out of fashion. At the moment jazz is king.

CRAZES

Speaking of jazz, there's no need to worry over-much about momentary crazes. Fads may last for years but if they have no real value they fade out. And over the long run, years are only moments. In the Middle Ages Europe went through an astonishing craze for dancing. Thousands danced in the streets. Madness was in the air. It was the main idea of the period. But the dance fad of the Middle Ages has been forgotten. Jazz will be forgotten

The Daybook Of A New Yorker

By Burton Rascoe

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. — A psychiatrist friend of mine tells me that a fear of failure is one of the most prevalent diseases of the mind in New York and that it is most rife among the eminently successful. Actors, musicians and writers are especially liable to the disease, but it also afflicts business men, pugilists and baseball players.

People suffering from this disease are capable of giving themselves violent headaches, acute indigestion, paralysis of the arms or larynx and amnesia—or at least all the symptoms of those ills.

One of the most famous of living conductors of symphony orchestras, a man known to thousands of concert goers in New York, has only recently been partially cured of his fear of failure. No one who ever watched him conduct would ever imagine that often he has held up the concerts for several minutes while he shook with fear in the wings, afraid to go on the stage. On one occasion just before he was scheduled to conduct a first performance of a new symphony, he gave himself paralysis of the right arm. He could not lift the baton. His arm hung limp and bloodless at his side. The concert was conducted by another man. As soon as the concert was over the "paralysis" disappeared. Psychiatrists convinced him that the "paralysis" was mental and after dredging into the quirks of his mind enabled him partially to conquer his fear.

Singers, violinists and pianists who disappoint their audiences by sudden illnesses are usually victims, my friend tells me, of imaginary diseases. They experience all the symptoms and the pain of the diseases, but what they actually suffer from is fear. There was the case of a woman violinist who not only failed to show up on the night she was to give a concert but disappeared and apparently suffered a loss of memory for several days. Cynics said it was press-agent stuff. My friend the psychiatrist says that it was amnesia induced by excessive anxiety not to fail.

Most of the great stars of the stage confess to violent stage-fright on the nights they open in a play in New York. When the opening of a play is postponed it is often because the star has brought the symptoms of some illness upon himself or herself out of sheer fright.

New Yorkers are distinguished for their ability to sleep through fires, explosions, the roar of traffic and other noises. Even so, the toughest of nerves have their susceptibilities. Tenants of an apartment building recently brought two men into court for disturbing their slumbers. According to the complaintants the men had for two days and nights been operating a steel drill in the work of blasting rock for a new building. The nuisance was abated. To a certain extent. The drilling was permitted between seven in the morning and seven in the evening.

Our Passion For Cinderella Stories

One of the most commendable traits that crop out in people of all races is the disposition to sympathize with worthy underdogs.

We are usually pleased when the poor boy, or the homely girl, or the ultimate consumer, gets the best of some one more rich or powerful.

No wonder that in the literature of every civilized people one theme stands foremost—Cinderella.

Whether in ancient fairy tales, or in an average successful play, the story is, with slight variation, much the same. A misunderstanding but various girl or boy, poor at the start, ends up rich in evening dress—and, as further proof of triumph, marries the handsome prince or beautiful princess.

The most popular juvenile story ever written was Miss Olcott's "Little Women," in which the children who went to their first party, Cinderella-like almost in rags, later became happy and prosperous.

In the Bible, too, there is a strong tendency ever to emphasize the virtues of ultimate triumph of the downtrodden. David, a lowly shepherd boy, with a crude, home-made sling, goes forth and kills the great Goliath. Joseph, after standing the taunts and abuses of his older brothers, eventually finds himself in a position of importance, the right-hand man in a big organization, able magnanimously to befriend the brothers who had mistreated him.

Our sympathies are with the stepped-on because most of us feel that we, ourselves, are not altogether appreciated. What boy who has been teased or disregarded by the older members of his family hasn't listened with delight to the story of Joseph? And what boy hasn't imagined himself returning to his home town in costly equipage, with a retinue of attendants, and bearers of burdens, in token of his success and genius, nodding haughtily at former school teachers or neighbors who predicted that he would end up in jail?

How we all like to picture ourselves in the act of lifting the mortgage on the old homestead with all who once scoffed now eager to praise!

We love to see the less polished character on the stage outdo the well-dressed, smooth-spoken stranger, who appears to have enjoyed superior advantages. Each person in the audience puts himself in the place of the humble character who is sure to triumph over his oppressors not later than 10:45, or toward the end of Act III.

From our Cinderella instinct to sympathize with those who are humble and oppressed it is only a step to find ourselves arrayed on the side of those who are merely humble without being oppressed.

The championship of all the lowly and all the common people is the stock in trade of the average politician. Indeed, the politician goes so far on his demagogic way in defending and glorifying the lowly man that he usually insists that he is one himself.

I Have Said in My Heart

By IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

MOTHER

It seems as though there were more strangers between mothers and daughters than in any other family relations. Every girl today should stop and ask herself, "Am I acquainted with mother?"

This lack of acquaintance is sometimes the girl's fault, and sometimes—sad to say—it is the mother's fault; but generally both are a little to blame.

As in all life's troubles, the greatest are those which come from lack of understanding. The mother must understand that the world has moved, that we are franker, freer, more liberty loving race than ever before, that in the hearts of the young there is no sin like the sin of hypocrisy, and today perhaps the daughter has no more little follies than had the mother before her, but the mother would not confess them even to herself, and daughter makes a habit of blazoning them to the world. Many things, too, that our mothers spoke of with bated breath, because to repeat them was not supposed to be modest, have been found to be perfectly natural and decent and only when one suppressed the ordinary speech about them did one begin to form habits of a prurient mind.

Fortunate is the girl today who has a mother broadminded enough, tolerant enough, and sympathetic enough to remember her own girlhood and so become the girl's friend. If both mother and daughter would take a little trouble to understand and court confidence with each other, both would be much happier.

When a young girl reaches the milestone in her career which is marked nowadays by the bobbing of her hair and being allowed to talk on every subject under the sun, a strange influence seems to beckon her off to an isolated rock where she plunges into the deepest depths of melancholia because everyone misunderstands her, "everyone" meaning Mother.

Sometimes the great difference in the ages between mother and child keeps the mother from entering heartily into childish joys and sorrows as would a younger woman who had just passed girlhood's portals when her babies began to come.

Sympathy is the greatest virtue in a mother just as it is in a friend. Ofttimes, however, it is purely a matter of selfishness. The lesson that life is one huge example of give and take must be learned by both mothers and daughters.

Memo: Be sure and make Mother's acquaintance. Usually you will find her more interesting than any girl you know.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Preserving Your Teeth's Beauty

I have spoken of the great importance of having attractive teeth if you wish the whole effect of your mouth to be one of beauty. There is nothing quite as disappointing as to see a girl who is pretty until she opens her mouth. Then you catch a glimpse of irregular, discolored teeth and the picture is ruined for you. Your smile should be your loveliest expression, and to make it so you must take intelligent care of your teeth.

Soda or salt dissolved in water makes as good dentifrices as I know of. If you use nothing else when you brush your teeth you can keep them lovely and white. If you prefer one of the prepared dentifrices there are, of course, many good ones.

Much depends upon your tooth brush. Don't use a "mop rag" for a tooth brush and expect it to get your teeth clean. It simply can't do the job. Get a brush with good, stiff bristles and brush vigorously. But always in a rotary motion, of from gums to the edge. If your gums are sensitive and bleed when you brush your teeth, try using cold water instead of warm.

I know many women who always carry a tooth brush with them in their handbag and brush the teeth well after each and every meal. This is the ideal system, although if it is impossible, you should at least brush them morning and night. In order that you can have a dry brush each time, it is good to have two or more tooth brushes. I have read that the young lady who was picked by a commission of dental experts as the possessor of the best teeth east of the Mississippi, states that she uses six bruhes insead of one, and keeps rotating them.

Don't use dirty tooth brushes. Sterlize them frequently and replace the old ones as soon as they begin to wear out. Dental authorities have said that tooth brushes are carriers of all kinds of germs when they are not kept exceedingly clean and well sterilized.

Inactivity and unhealthiness are synonyms when applied to every part of the body. It is the same with the gums. If you want to keep your gums healthy, you must exercise them. The only way you can do this is by massage. Massage them vigorously at least once a day, and you will be keeping them in a condition to withstand pyorrhea. Or, if you can stand it, stimulate them with salt water and a stiff brush.

Of course, a great deal depends upon your general health. If your digestion is impaired, if you are constipated, your mouth cannot be sweet nor can your teeth and gums be kept free from the germs that cause canker sorts and decay. When you brush your teeth, you should rinse your mouth with a good antiseptic. It is also advisable to rinse your tooth brush in the same antiseptic before you use it in your mouth. Get in the habit of drinking a full glass of water at the same time.

However good the care you take of your teeth, you will be wise to have them examined by a dentist every six months, so that you can catch any decay before it has a chance to spread.

I have spoken now of your teeth and means of making them contribute to your beauty. I want to discuss a subject of an altogether different order, but one that I feel is closely connected with the beauty of the mouth. This is diction, or how to develop a charming voice.

MENU HINT

If plain milk toast is not liked by members of your family, possibly tomato toast will appeal to them. It is nothing more nor less than the old familiar milk toast with strained tomato added. It makes a good dish for breakfast, luncheon or supper.

Tomato Toast Baked Potato
Lettuce with Thousand Island Dressing
Fruit Blanc Mange Milk

Today's Recipes

Tomato Toast—One can tomato soup, two tablespoons butter, four tablespoons flour, one cup milk, salt and pepper, three tablespoons strained cheese, six slices toast. Melt the butter, stir in flour and when well blended add the milk. Stir over the fire until smooth and thick, add soup, heat, season to taste, and pour over bread toasted on one or both sides. Press cheese through strainer and sprinkle over the top. The cheese may be omitted.

Fruit Blanc Mange—Put one quart of milk into double boiler and heat to boiling point. Add four tablespoons cornstarch mixed smooth in a little cold milk with a pinch of salt and half a cup of sugar. Cook until thick, season to taste and pour over cooked or fresh fruit. Eat cold with sugar and cream.

Macaroons — Are little cakes made of stiff egg whites, sugar and almond paste. They differ from kisses in that the later are always sweeter and more frothy in texture.

Chocolate Layer Cake — Two cups brown sugar, one-half cup butter, one-half cup sour milk, one-half cup hot water, two eggs, one teaspoon vanilla, two squares chocolate cut fine and dissolved in the hot water, two cups flour, measured before siftiing, one heaping teaspoon soda in sour milk. Bake in layer tins.

Fluff—Foam, fluff or snow puff (souffle), whip or syllabub are all terms used for mixtures made very light and foamy by stiff egg whites or whipped cream.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. — For the sufferer from insomnia no better literature can be recommended than one of the annual reports of the United States Coast Guard.

If that won't send the sleepless one off into a trance nothing will.

When a hurricane comes screeching up out of the Caribbean and the waves break funnel-top-high off Hatteras and merchan ship's scudding, terrified, for shelter, the coast guard cutters put to sea, hunting perishing mariners to rescue.

When fog settles on the Newfoundland Banks and the transalantic lanes are deadly with icebergs coast guard cutters dodge, tootling, around among them, warning liners where destruction lurks.

Adventure Is Watchword

When a big vessel piles up on a lee shore in a tempest and it's obvious to anybody with a lick of sense that no human power can save a soul abroad her, a coast guard crew launches a cockle-shell in the surf, pulls serenely out to the disintegrat-outfit.

You can judge for yourself if it's an adventurous service.

Well, it turns out duller official reports than the patent office.

They mention, for example, a rescue, on such and such a date. The distressed ship's name is given, and her captain's. The number of those saved is recorded. The incident's latitude and longitude are mentioned. Then, perhaps, the cutter's commander adds, casually, some such remark as: "The wreck foundered," signs his name and that's all there is to it.

About as much thrill as there is to a one- horse country bank's monthly balance sheet—to somebody who hasn't any money on deposit there,never did have, and never expects to.

Work Is Perfunctory.

What's more, I've yet to find a coast guardsman who can tell an exciting story of any of his work.

It seems to be purely perfunctory with 'em.

Lieutenant Commander Stephen S. Yeandle, first assistant C. Billard, the guard's commandant, was called on to make a little talk recently before the Atlantic Deep Waterways association convention in Baltimore.

He was pretty hard put to it to think of anything to say at first, but finally he bethought himself of the fact that the guard had rescued 15,000 persons from "imminent danger" in the last five years.

Was that of any interest?

"You bet it is," said the convention. "Tell us about it."

"Why, that's all there is to tell," said Yeandle. "There isn't any more."

Guards Are Modest.

The convention was clamorous and insistent. The commander cudgeled his brain—hard. At last he got another inspiration—coast guard cutters, in those same five years, had helped vessels with 85,000 sailormen and passengers on board them. How about that? Would that do?

The convention settled down to listen. "Go on," it prompted.

"I got no place to go," complained Yeandle. "We simply helped 'em."

The convention looked disappointed. Yeandle sensed it and evidently it hurt him. He appeared to have failed, somehow. Then he brightened. Another idea had struck him.

"We took 47,000 persons from roofs, treetops and other points of peril during the Mississippi flood," he proclaimed, hopefully.

"You should get our last reports," he informed delegates who tried to pump him later. "That has all the figures better than I can give 'em."

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

HARDWORKING YOUNG PEOPLE

My favorite form of philanthropy—although I hate that word—if I could indulge in luxuries, would be to help those of our young people who are making such an effort to stay in school until they finish their courses. They work after school and Saturdays, cheerfully giving up the fun which they should have, to earn money to buy books and clothes. Sometimes parents and friends help, often they have to face actual discouragement at home.

I often wonder why lonely, childless people don't make a point of finding some of these young folks and giving them a helping hand.

Here is a letter from one of them:

"My Dear Mrs. Lee: I am writing to you with the hopes that you may help me as you have others. I also take this opportunity to congratulate you on your helpful advice.

"I am 17 and a senior at high school. Circumstances in the family are making it very difficult for me to continue my course. I am doing well in my studies and am very anxious to finish. Mrs. Lee, do you suppose you could help me to secure afternoon work? It is the only means by which I can continue my schooling. I am dreading the day that I will be asked to leave and go to work, but if I can get afternoon work I will be allowed to complete the year.

'Hoping you may help me I will sign myself as

"DESPERADO."

Go to your school principal and tell him or her your problem. She will help you find work for she is interested in keeping you in school until you finish. And, my dear, if I did know of any special work which you could do—which I don't this minute—how could I find you when all the name and address I have is "Desperado"?

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a daily reader of your column and would like to ask you a question. If a man married in one state and then came here, and married some one else, would the second wife be his legal wife if she went through the ceremony legally, or would she be able to annul the marriage? My girl friends says the second wife will get an annulment from the authorities. Is she right? WONDERING."

There would be no need of annument as the second wife could not be legally married to a man who already had a wife. It would make no difference whether the first wife was in another state or another country, she would still be his only legal wife until she had divorced him or he her.

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent.

TWELVE AFTER ONE

"Skip along, now, children. You can't hang on mother's tail every moment, you know. Summer is coming and you will want to forage for yourselves, but if ever you are going to learn how 'tis high time you began.

"It is growing darker every second. Soon you will be able to see everything that moves among the shadows. Look, babies! Right in front of you is a furrow in the earth. Mr. Mole is just beneath the surface. If you hustle you can scratch him up before he has time to dig himself in.

"Let's see which one of you reaches the ridge first, and the winner shall have a fair chance to bring up the blind burrower. Right-o! Now you're on the right road. Good luck to you, babies!"

"Twelve after one! Poor Mr. Mole is in bad luck."

Peter looked about to find the speaker, but the lady, whoever it was, kept well out of sight.

"Twelve little 'possums went skipping down the lane," began the same high, squeaky voice, in a sing-song tone. Suddenly the cheerful humming turned into a squeal of dismay.

"Oh, dear! oh, dear me! What can the matter be? Danger in sight or Mrs. Rabbit would never be scampering through the field likt that.

"Just watch her! She isn't even taking time for a ibble, and never in my life have I seen her race through the clover without so much as a passing bite at the pink and white tops!"

The squeaky voice sounded much nearer than it had at first. Just to the right of the Rabbit Hole lay a fallen log, and out from behind log popped a whiskered face. Catching sight of Peter standing at the Rabbit Hole, the creature wrinkled its long nose, wiggled its ears and showed its sharp teeth.

OUT FROM BEHIND THE LOG POPPED A WHISKERED FACE.

Next—"No Cat in Spite of His Whiskers."

He received a reply from the girl — "I am flattered by your proposal, but I am now married and have three children."

CENTRAL IS READY FOR GREENVILLE AT COX FIELD FRIDAY

Central High School's football squad is tapering off with practice sessions in preparation for the game with Greenville High at Cox Memorial Athletic Field Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Greenville is coached by a new athletic director, Ralph E. Ness, former mentor at Miamisburg High School, where he enjoyed great success, turning out several championship football and basketball teams. Ness made the all-Ohio football team one year while at Wittenburg University.

After accepting the position of athletic director at Miamisburg, Ness turned out one all-Miami Valley football team and two elevens that achieved runner-up honors in his four years of association with the school.

Greenville hopes to avenge Xenia's one-sided victory scored in 1926, but is no more determined than the local eleven to win Friday.

Dave Reese, Dayton, will again referee the contest and Kenneth Kerr, Wilmington, will act as umpire. Paul Fuller will be headlinesman.

Before the game starts, students of the high school will assemble in the Jean B. Elwell Auditorium for a final "pep" rally at 2:30 o'clock.

RESERVES CANCEL GAME WITH INDIANAPOLIS; TO PLAY DAYTON

Management of the Reserves has cancelled the scheduled second series of the three games with the A. B. C. colored nine, of Indianapolis, Ind., it is announced.

Reserves and Indianapolis could not agree on terms and the cancellation was made Wednesday. First game of the series was scheduled for next Sunday.

However, a baseball game at Washington Park Sunday is assured by the announcement a contest has been booked with the Dayton White Sox, a colored team.

Dayton will gather its players from a number of other clubs, including Greenfield, and expects to present a strong lineup for the game.

On the following Sunday, Reserves will wind up their season by meeting the Dayton Marcos, perhaps the most widely known colored nine in southern Ohio.

Don Clark, Dayton hurler, will be on the mound against the White Sox Sunday, it is guaranteed.

Manager Jess Chambliss announces that the owner of a valuable man's glove, found at Washington Park last Sunday, may claim it at the box office Sunday. Sunday's game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

WAILING ON MONONGAHELA AS PITTSBURGH LOSES FIRST TILT

By JACK LAIT

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6 —There is wailing and lamentation on the banks of the Monongahela today. Many of the home-towners have been at it since yesterday afternoon, having writhed neath the sackcloth and ashes of defeat continuously without the feel of a bed. It was a wild night in Pittsburgh. But it would have been frantic had the Pirates won.

The local enthusiasts are crying "lucky breaks" but New York's best piece of luck was Donie Bush's stubbornness in keeping Ray Kremer in after some of the sloppiest pitching ever beheld in a big series. In the battle of the big four right-handed pitchers the Yanks had the call. The expert dope was doubly reversed when the slugging Yanks were outhit and the pitching Pirates were outpitched.

I think the Yanks are the better outfit. Without their heavy guns working, they outclassed Pittsburgh's nifty but not mighty team.

Kremer helped lose his own game when he issued two passes in the third inning. Ruth's single, Grantham's error, and a dumb throw and muff by Smith completed the rout. That was a terrible inning for the Pirates, and that was where the game passed out.

Although it would have been logical to yank Kremer at this juncture, as he would be the first batter up in Pittsburgh's turn at bat, Bush let him stay. When Kremer came to bat he doubled and scored which was fine, but he shouldn't have gone back to the box. He got the balmy Pittsburgh air two innings later. It should have been three sooner.

Ruth was easily the hitting star, though the best he got was singles. He scored two runs and figured in three Yankee rallies. Lou Gehrig was the fielding luminary. He was a demon with that right-hand glove. Ruth, however made the only sensational catch of the affray.

It was higher class technical big league ball all the way, but would have rated only as a fair game without many big moments had the stake been anything less than a world title. A foreigner watching it would have wondered why so many people ($182,477 worth) were here. He would have seen workmanlike playing but few highspot thrills.

Even Ruth and Gehrig were exciting only because of what they have done rather than for what they did. They never flashed their specialty, the long wallops. Gehrig's triple in the first should have been held to a single.

To me, one of the chief figures of interest was Kiki Cuyler, sweatered, idle, nervous, petulant, at the mouth of the dugout like Achilles sulking in his tent. It's a family quarrel. But all the neighbors are in on it.

The crowd called aloud for him in the ninth inning pinch, but a feeble Brickell who hit to the pitcher was all they got. And groans were all that answered.

Had Cuyler batted, the nation's heart would have been in its windpipewith suspense and drama. And—had he hit—and had he tied the score—that would have been one no Frank Merriwell ever would have dared invent. No petty quarrel should rob America of a try at such a thrill.

But—he didn't.

And so the first game goes into the records reading rather mathematical, mechanical and kickless.

But—today's another day—and at least one hero must come through. I still hope it will be Kiki.

Watch Your Kidneys!

To Be Well See That They Function Properly.

YOUR kidneys! Do you realize what an important part they play in your health and length of life? Your kidneys are the blood filters. When they act sluggishly, waste poisons remain in the blood and make one tired and drowsy, with often nagging backache, annoying headache and dizzy spells. That the kidneys are not acting right is often shown by scanty or burning excretions. Assist the kidneys with a stimulant diuretic. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Regain Health this Way!

There is a right way to regain health—if you are anemic, weak, nervous and run-down, because of thin, watery blood and deficient gland activity.

The way is easy, pleasant, prompt. It is scientific, for it deals with supplying the elements needed by the system. The method has been used successfully 15 years. The use of Cadomene Tablets has grown to over one million a week, by users telling others how effective the method is. There are people in your own circle who have regained lost health. Your doctor or druggist can tell you of "the miracle-like" recoveries of thin, anemic, weak, nervous-run-down folks.

Take from your food all calcium, phosphorus, iron and magnesium—and you wither and die. Reduce the amount your blood and glands should have, and you soon become afflicted with Nerve Trouble, Gland Trouble, Anemia, Weakness, Digestive Disorders, Infected Teeth, Headaches, Lowered Vitality, Fatigue, a tendency to have "colds" frequently and a general lethargy of mind and body.

The "Balance" or level of your system is upset, due to modern methods of preparing foods from which vital elements have been taken. Cadomene gives back this lost balance promptly. Six to eight weeks' use is time enough to produce a delightful buoyancy of spirit and reserve strength. Simply take three to six tablets daily as per directions.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

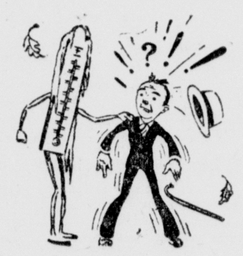

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

CHRISTIAN FORCED TO CONFESS CHRIST TO EARN SALVATION

boast of their membership, however, they do not say a word about their belief in Jesus Christ and the Word of God. These men will yell themselves hoarse for their political party; wear pins and buttons denoting their membership in any organization, but when it comes to acknowledging their belief in Christ and God, they act like they are dumb and cannot speak a word.

"Whether you think about life in this world and in the world to come, the greatest question you'll ever put to yourself or anybody else, the greatest business you'll ever be called upon to transact is, and the greatest concern of your soul ought to be: 'How can I with all my sin and all the indecencies of my life be justified in the sight of God and be saved from eternal death and hell?' You are concerned about a hundred other things but you'd better be concerned about this one most important thing of all. And you'd better neglect anything else than to neglect your soul.

"Our text says: 'If thou shalt believe in thine heart.' There is a difference between heart belief and head belief. A belief in the heart always manifests itself in two ways:

"First—by an absolute trust in the object of its faith. You can believe all you want to about Jesus Christ and go to hell with your head full of belief like that. It's believing in Him in your heart that saves you because it's that kind of belief that leads you to trust Him and commit yourself to him in order to be a Christian."

"Second—The other way that a belief in the heart manifests itself, is in the life. The other fellow who believes in his heart and then confesses with his mouth is the fellow who delivers the goods. The fellow who believes in his head and confesses with his mouth is the fellow Jesus was talking about when he said 'Why call ye me Lord, Lord and do not the things I say?'

"Confession of Jesus Christ, public confession is the important matter. Confess him by your life. Confess Christ in baptism. Confess Christ by joining some church.

"God demands a public confession, because and for your own sake. God demands it for the sake of others. God demands a confession for Christ's sake. If any human being did one millionth as much for you as Christ has done you would never cease to praise the human being who helped you. Why not confess Christ who died for you?"

The speaker closed with several illustrations out of his own experience which pointed the truth he was expounding. A large number of young people and others went forward in re-consecration and confessing Christ.

A good company of young people occupied reserved seats Wednesday evening including the entire squad of the Central High School football team. Practically all of the young men took a stand for better things and Christ. Two girls, Dorothy and Flora Ireton sang a duet. "Good Night Here and Good Morning Up There." The Rev. William H. Tilford, led in the opening Prayer and the Rev. J. P. Lytle in the closing prayer. Mayor J. W. Prugh, paid a glowing tribute to Dr. Biederwolf from the platform in connection with the free will offering for the evangelist which will be taken next Sunday. The Rev. Homer Grimes sang "The Hand That Was Wounded for Me." Dr. A. Gordon Maclennan of Philadelphia, pastor of the Bethany Church, to which Dr. Biederwolf goes from Xenia, was present at the service and had a conference with the evangelists later.

The following announcements were made: Thursday p. m. "The Unpardonable Sin"; Friday afternoon "Bringing Back the King"; Friday night "Getting Off On The Right Foot"; Saturday night short meeting at the church and a street meeting; three union services Sunday beginning at 10:45 a. m.; men only 3:00 p. m. General meeting at night. Members of the various churches can bring their usual offering in their envelopes and these will be returned to the respective churches; Monday night "Evangelistic Travelogue Around the World."

GRAND JURY BRINGS TWO INDICTMENTS; TWO DAY SESSION

velopment that has become noticeable since his arrest.

Cases of Lester Mitchell, Xenia, and Andrew Furay, Cedarville, charged with statutory offenses, were referred to Juvenile Court for consideration as the girls involved in the alleged offenses are under age.

Cases ignored by the grand jury included a charge of shooting with intent to wound against Constable Sidney Cornelius, Bath Twp. The charge was filed by Charles W. Murphy, Dayton. While investigating the activities of a party of campers on a farm near Osborn July 24, the constable discharged his revolver, the bullet wounding Murphy's sister, Mrs. Clara Smith, Dayton. Cornelius declared the shot was accidental.

No indictment was found against Lester Champ, accused of operating a Ford touring car belonging to Caleb Hitchcock, August 12, without the owner's consent.

The grand jury also ignored a charge of petit larceny against Alva Toner, S. Galloway St., who was bound over by Mayor John W. Prugh on the charge of stealing a broom worth seventy cents from Charles Melvin, blind broommaker, Sept. 13.

A fourth case ignored was that of Eugene Haines, charged in an affidavit sworn out by Fate Ewing with shooting with intent to kill. Haines was held to the grand jury by Mayor Prugh. The alleged shooting episode took place July 28.

The jury ignored a charge of selling a mortgaged auto without the consent of the owner of the claim, filed against Horace L. Beatty. Beatty was bound over to Common Pleas Court by J. E. Jones, justice of the peace, accused of selling mortgaged property with intent to defraud John T. Harbine, Jr., June 13.

The sixth case to be ignored was that of J. D. Shanahan, charged with making an assault with intent to kill upon Howard Nicely August 5. Shanahan was bound over by Oliver Watson, Sugarcreek Twp. justice of the peace. Shanahan, a farmer, had ordered a party of Dayton people, off his farm when he caught them picking blackberries.

In a report, following its usual inspection of the County Jail, the grand jury recommended that a men's toilet and lavatory be installed; that a new system of locking cells be installed; that the sheriff be provided with a jailor and that better lighting and ventilation be provided; and finally, that the heat from the jail be brought over from the Court House heating plant in the rear of the jail, instead of the furnace under the sheriff's residence at the jail.

That a new system of locking cells be installed, was also recommended by the last grand jury.

Prisoners indicted by the grand jury will be arraigned in Common Pleas Court on the indictments Friday or Saturday.

Practically all of the cases considered by the grand jury were of a minor nature, but because of the unusually heavy docket, two days were needed for the jury to complete its deliberations.

The grand jury was composed of:

Dr. Austin M. Patterson, Xenia, foreman; J. J. Mollitor, Beavercreek Twp.; Ethel Johnson, Silvercreek Twp.; Joseph Adams, Miami Twp.; F. S. Linkhart, Xenia; J. C. Short, Xenia; Jessie Turnbull, Cedarville Twp.; Josephine Ankeney, Beavercreek Twp.; Anna Baker, Miami Twp.; Samuel P. Faulkner, Caesarcreek Twp.; J. E. Keiter, Xenia Twp.; George D. Durnbaugh, Xenia; Ada Baker, Cedarville Twp.; Howard Norris, Xenia; Laura Wilkins, Xenia.

PITTSBURGH TAKES FIELD SECOND TIME STILL OPTIMISTIC

ed to do better the next time he starts. Waite Hoyt, the Yanks' starting pitcher in the series, said he "didn't mind" being knocked out of the box because it was "all in the game" and, besides, he realizes he wasn't "right."

High praise was given by the ball players to both relief pitchers in the opening game, Wilcy Moore for the Yanks, and John Miljus, the big Pittsburgh right-hander. It was freely predicted that both of them will be given an opportunity soon to start a game. Moore stopped the Pirates dead when they became threatening in the eighth and turned them back in one, two, three order in the ninth, while Miljus held the Yanks to one hit in the four innings he was on the mound.

Another capacity crowd was expected to turn out this afternoon to see the Pirates battle to turn the tide. The great crowd that packed every inch of space inside Forbes Field at the opening game was disappointed at the collapse of the highly-touted Kremer and the bungles of Grantham and Smith. Catcher Smith's failure to get Gehrig when he had him trapped between third and home will probably keep him on the bench today and maybe for the series.

The Pittsburgh fans seemed to resent the work of Ruth in hitting mere singles. They don't want him to hit at all but they think they are cheated when he doesn't wreck a fence when he does hit. Babe is anxious not to disappoint them in this respect.

Manager Bush's decision not to send Kiki Cuyler, heavy hitting outfielder, in to pinch hit has created a flurry of discussion. With the great Cuyler on the bench, Bush selected a substitute outfielder, Fred Brickell, to pinch hit for Miljus in the ninth and the best Brickell could do was to tap weakly to the pitcher.

"Why didn't he use Cuyler?" is the question asked on all sides today.

Paul Waner, one of Pittsburgh's idols, remained on the pedestal local fandom has placed him. His three hits, one of them a double, furnished one of the few bright spots for the home town fans. Today Waner and Ruth, the best publicized players in the series, are leading the batting averages, each with a mark of .750.

All reserved seats for this afternoon's game have been sold. The only seats left are for the temporary bleachers in center field and standing room. The police continued active in seizing t speculators, eleven men ha been arrested and 100 tickets fiscated in the last twenty- hours. Judge STUDEBAKER'S ERSKINE SIX

1. By what it does

All around the great world, the unequalled performance of Studebaker's Erskine is winning new records—and thousands of happy new owners.

APRIL 16. London to Land's End Reliability Run—Erskine Six sedan won highest gold medal award in 317.5 mile competition under supervision of Royal Automobile Club.

JUNE 4. London-Edinburgh Reliability Run—Erskine Six sedan won highest gold medal award in 415.75 mile competition supervised by the Royal Automobile Club.

JUNE 14. Spanish Performance Test—Three Erskine Six tourers won gold medals in the maximum classifications of a competition held in Barcelona under supervision of Royal Automobile Club of Cataluna. Distance covered, 437 miles.

JUNE 22. Buenos Aires—Erskine Six sedan captured the Argentine endurance run after running continuously for 5 days, 5 nights and three hours. 1548 miles were covered. Supervised by Santa Fe Automobile Club.

JULY 20. Santa Fe to Buenos Aires—Erskine Six sedan set new speed record for 347.5 mile distance between Santa Fe and Buenos Aires—under supervision of Santa Fe Automobile Club.

JULY 24. Hamburg Driving Tournament—Erskine Six tourer only car to successfully complete all 12 trials to determine speed and flexibility of cars participating. Won first place from field of 23 competitors. Tournament supervised by Allgemeine Deutsche Automobil-Club and Automobile Club von Deutschland.

AUGUST 14. Sierra Mountain Run—Erskine Six sedan completed gruelling run of 401 miles over five highest Sierra mountain summits in elapsed time of 17 hours and 39 minutes. Every conceivable type of road was encountered.

2. By what owners say

Ask the owner of any Erskine Six what he thinks of it. His reply will do more to convince you of the unusual value built into every Erskine Six by Studebaker than any amount of sales talk. Here are the comments of a few Erskine owners:

Right There With Speed

"The Erskine Six is sure right there with speed and endurance. I think it is great and I don't believe it can be beat for the price. Believe me, it is just O. K."—Mrs. C. T., Pleasantville, N. J.

Unsurpassed

"We are delighted with our Erskine in both performance and looks. It is unsurpassed in the light car field and much handsomer in every way than we expected."
C. H. A., Milford, Delaware

Couldn't Be Improved

"The Erskine Six is the best car I have ever driven. I don't see where any improvements could be made. It does everything you claim, and drives and steers beyond all my expectations. The comfort of the car is beyond all question. We think it is beautiful and the finest small car on the market."—C. H. A., Milford, Delaware

No Repair Expense

"I have driven my Erskine about 4300 miles to date. I have had no repair expense whatever and have continually averaged 28 miles to the gallon of gasoline."
W. H. B., Sharon, Pa.

Quick Pickup

"It is 'the car you love to drive'. I have owned several cars and I just told my wife the other day that this is the only satisfactory car I have ever owned. It will go where I want to go and is always quick on the pick-up."
E. F. P., Dallas, Texas

IS THERE NO RELIEF FROM SKIN TORTURE?

Must I Continue to Suffer the Unbearable Itching?

Are you one of those unfortunates who are going through life suffering with a skin disease, making you uncomfortable, making you less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in many forms of skin disease. Thousands of letters of gratitude prove its worth.

"I feel so happy for what S.S.S. has done for me that I want others to know about it. I suffered twenty long years from eczema. At times the itching was unbearable. During that time, I used all kinds of salves without receiving any real benefit. After taking six bottles of S.S.S., I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S.S.S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me." Cleophas Forte, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger is more economical.

The Smooth and Mighty Power of the Steam Engine

High Compression Performance with any Gasoline

In converting waste heat to power, the new companion invention to the Super-Six principle accomplishes the ideal performance of the high-compression type motor that is sought through the use of special and costly fuels.

The Super-Six principle transforms what otherwise is destructive vibration into useful power. The companion invention converts waste heat to power. Combined they afford the highest efficiency in power generation and transmission ever achieved within our knowledge. This makes Hudson the most economical car per pound weight in the world.

No wonder such performance results have won for Hudson its greatest triumph. Hudson offers a genuinely new kind of performance. Drive it and you will know.

There is a full line of Hudson Super-Six models on the 127-inch Super-Six chassis. And with the new 119-inch chassis, a duplicate of the larger car in all particulars save length, there is also a car for those who want such signal quality and performance in a shorter, more compact car.

HUNGRY CHILDREN GIVEN NOURISHING MEALS FROM FUNDS

Commenting on the need for funds to feed undernourished children in the Xenia Public Schools, the aim of the drive to be staged by Federated Parent-Teacher Association, next Tuesday, October 11, Miss Edna Bloom, principal of McKinley School, said Thursday:

"Three thousand and fifty-one lunches were served to McKinley pupils last year. This could and should have been a much larger number. Because of the cost we selected only those who appeared to be suffering most. In every case the homes of these pupils were investigated by the school or a social worker. Many times pupils came to school breakfastless or had eaten food that stimulated for a short time rather than nourished.

"Before we had these organizations that now help us to solve, at least in part, these problems, teachers have kept jars of crackers and fruit in their cupboards to give to the child crying because of hunger. Often in those days and still occasionally, a teacher in our building has sent a child to her home for a warm breakfast or taken him home at noon for a real lunch.

"The hungry boy is a sick boy. He cannot attend. He is not alert. The more fortunate child also suffers since he must wait until this child, who is slower because of physical rather than mental conditions has performed the task assigned by the teacher."

YOUNG RESCUER MISSES HERO MEDAL

NEW YORK CITY.—It was a stormy sea. Waves beat six feet high. Two boys struggled vainly to swim back to shore after their canoe capsized. Here was a real chance for young Arthur Benson to prove himself a hero and win a medal maybe. He jumped in his canoe and brought the two victims safely to shore. But hope for a hero medal vanished when the two boys declined to give their names.

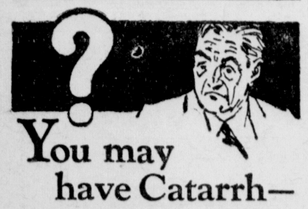

MAY HAVE HAD NO CHANGE

STOUGHTON, Mass.—To a night motorist, a quart of oil may mean a thing of utmost importance, and he is not going to deliberate long as to the method of obtaining it. When a proprietor of a gas station came to open for business early one morning he found a window broken. A thorough search revealed no loss—except—a quart of motor oil.

SCIATIC-NEURITIS

The sciatic nere, situated at the back of the hip joint is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pains which shoot down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The trouble is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative often to alleviate the pain. The best way to get relief from the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced, if not almost banished, all pain and soreness. Continue faithfully and in a reasonable time you should be able to work and rest in comfort once again. Sayre's Drug Store keeps Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, in stock all the time and sells lots of it. —Adv.

PUPILS HEAR RADIO STORY OF BASEBALL GAME AT ASSEMBLY

Feeling that the baseball world's series is a great American event and therefore officials are justified in recognizing it in the schools, the play-by-play account of the opening game of the 1927 classic between the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Yankees, was heard over radio by about 600 students at the Central High School building for four innings Wednesday afternoon.

Pupils of both junior and senior high schools assembled in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium at 1:30 for the radio description of the game.

The assembly was held during a general study period and no regular classes were missed.

A large super-hetrodyne radio, with an RCA 104 loud speaker and an Electro victrola, furnished through the courtesy of the Adair furniture store, was set up on the stage.

Coach Victor Kolb recorded the score by innings on a large blackboard.

Although appearing to display an intelligent interest in the game, the girls, especially, became restless after four innings and students adjourned to their classrooms.

Members of the faculty also took an unusual interest in the contest. No partiality was shown by the children betweenthe National and American League representatives. Students appeared to "root" equally hard for both teams.

Girl students also exhibited an unexpected knowledge of the sport by applauding at the correct intervals. Babe Ruth drew applause whenever he came up to bat.

Some of the students in the stenography classes killed two birds with one stone by taking down the play-by-play account of the game in shorthand.

However, the radio baseball parties in the afternoon will be discontinued, according to Principal Louis Hammerle.

GATE RECEIPTS FOR SERIES GAMES WILL BE DIVIDED THUS:

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6—The gate receipts of the world series games will be divided as follows:

Fifteen per cent of the gross receipts of all games goes to the office of Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis. In the first four games, forty per cent of the balance goes to the owners of the two contending clubs and the remaining sixty per cent is divided between the two world series contenders and the teams which finished second, third and fourth in each league.

The players' share is divided as follows:

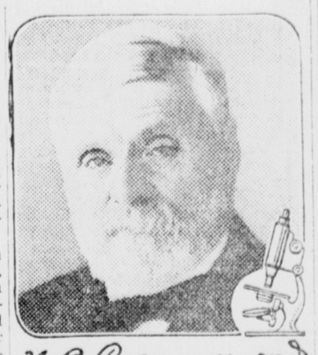

Seventy per cent of it goes to the world series contenders, three-fifths of it to the winner and two-fifths to the loser, the remaining thirty per cent of the players' share goes to the clubs finishing second, third and fourth in the ration of 50 per cent, 33 1-3 per cent and 16 2-3 per cent.

In all games after the first four, the magnates of the two world series clubs receive eighty-five per cent of the gross receipts.

YOUNGSTER PARADES

PARIS, Oct. 6—Gilbert Bettmans, Junior, only seven, was the youngest person in Ohio's delegation in the opening day American Legion parade. Gilbert's father, former Vice Mayor of Cincinnati and past Department Commander of Ohio, was naturally there too.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

When Dr. Caldwell started to practive medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constpation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE. —Adv.

IS THERE NO RELIEF FROM SKIN TORTURE?

Must I Continue to Suffer the Unbearable Itching?

Are you one of those unfortunates who are going through life suffering with a skin disease, making you uncomfortable, making you less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in many forms of skin disease. Thousands of letters of gratitude prove its worth.

"I feel so happy for what S.S.S. has done for me that I want others to know about it. I suffered twenty long years from eczema. At times the itching was unbearable. During that time, I used all kinds of salves without receiving any real benefit. After taking six bottles of S.S.S., I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S.S.S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me." Cleophas Forte, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger is more economical.

The Smooth and Mighty Power of the Steam Engine

High Compression Performance with any Gasoline

In converting waste heat to power, the new companion invention to the Super-Six principle accomplishes the ideal performance of the high-compression type motor that is sought through the use of special and costly fuels.

The Super-Six principle transforms what otherwise is destructive vibration into useful power. The companion invention converts waste heat to power. Combined they afford the highest efficiency in power generation and transmission ever achieved within our knowledge. This makes Hudson the most economical car per pound weight in the world.

No wonder such performance results have won for Hudson its greatest triumph. Hudson offers a genuinely new kind of performance. Drive it and you will know.

There is a full line of Hudson Super-Six models on the 127-inch Super-Six chassis. And with the new 119-inch chassis, a duplicate of the larger car in all particulars save length, there is also a car for those who want such signal quality and performance in a shorter, more compact car.

HUNGRY CHILDREN GIVEN NOURISHING MEALS FROM FUNDS

Commenting on the need for funds to feed undernourished children in the Xenia Public Schools, the aim of the drive to be staged by Federated Parent-Teacher Association, next Tuesday, October 11, Miss Edna Bloom, principal of McKinley School, said Thursday:

"Three thousand and fifty-one lunches were served to McKinley pupils last year. This could and should have been a much larger number. Because of the cost we selected only those who appeared to be suffering most. In every case the homes of these pupils were investigated by the school or a social worker. Many times pupils came to school breakfastless or had eaten food that stimulated for a short time rather than nourished.

"Before we had these organizations that now help us to solve, at least in part, these problems, teachers have kept jars of crackers and fruit in their cupboards to give to the child crying because of hunger. Often in those days and still occasionally, a teacher in our building has sent a child to her home for a warm breakfast or taken him home at noon for a real lunch.

"The hungry boy is a sick boy. He cannot attend. He is not alert. The more fortunate child also suffers since he must wait until this child, who is slower because of physical rather than mental conditions has performed the task assigned by the teacher."

KLAN WILL CONVENE HERE OCTOBER 15

Greene County Ku Klux Klan is sponsoring an indoor Konklave at the Klan Tabernacle, E. Third St., Saturday, October 15.

County Klans participating in the Konklave will be: Clark, Miami, Preble, Warren, Clinton, Fayette, Madison and Green County with other counties invited.

Members will gather for a social time and refreshments at 4 p. m. The drum corps will perform at 5 p. m., and the members will gather around the amusement booths. The parade will start at 7:30 prompt and will traverse the main thoroughfares of the city. At 8:30 p. m., the members will return to the Tabernacle where addresses will be made by state and national Klan speakers. The public is invited.

Instrumental and vocal music will be furnished.

YOUNG RESCUER MISSES HERO MEDAL

NEW YORK CITY.—It was a stormy sea. Waves beat six feet high. Two boys struggled vainly to swim back to shore after their canoe capsized. Here was a real chance for young Arthur Benson to prove himself a hero and win a medal maybe. He jumped in his canoe and brought the two victims safely to shore. But hope for a hero medal vanished when the two boys declined to give their names.

MAY HAVE HAD NO CHANGE

STOUGHTON, Mass.—To a night motorist, a quart of oil may mean a thing of utmost importance, and he is not going to deliberate long as to the method of obtaining it. When a proprietor of a gas station came to open for business early one morning he found a window broken. A thorough search revealed no loss—except—a quart of motor oil.

SCIATIC-NEURITIS

The sciatic nere, situated at the back of the hip joint is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pains which shoot down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The trouble is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain. The best way to get relief from the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced, if not almost banished, all pain and soreness. Continue faithfully and in a reasonable time you should be able to work and rest in comfort once again. Sayre's Drug Store keeps Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, in stock all the time and sells lots of it. —Adv.

PUPILS HEAR RADIO STORY OF BASEBALL GAME AT ASSEMBLY

Feeling that the baseball world's series is a great American event and therefore officials are justified in recognizing it in the schools, the play-by-play account of the opening game of the 1927 classic between the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Yankees, was heard over radio by about 600 students at the Central High School building for four innings Wednesday afternoon.

Pupils of both junior and senior high schools assembled in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium at 1:30 for the radio description of the game.

The assembly was held during a general study period and no regular classes were missed.

A large super-hetrodyne radio, with an RCA 104 loud speaker and an Electro victrola, furnished through the courtesy of the Adair furniture store, was set up on the stage.

Coach Victor Kolb recorded the score by innings on a large blackboard.

Although appearing to display an intelligent interest in the game, the girls, especially, became restless after four innings and students adjourned to their classrooms.

Members of the faculty also took an unusual interest in the contest. No partiality was shown by the children betweenthe National and American League representatives. Students appeared to "root" equally hard for both teams.

Girl students also exhibited an unexpected knowledge of the sport by applauding at the correct intervals. Babe Ruth drew applause whenever he came up to bat.

Some of the students in the stenography classes killed two birds with one stone by taking down the play-by-play account of the game in shorthand.

However, the radio baseball parties in the afternoon will be discontinued, according to Principal Louis Hammerle.

GATE RECEIPTS FOR SERIES GAMES WILL BE DIVIDED THUS:

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6—The gate receipts of the world series games will be divided as follows:

Fifteen per cent of the gross receipts of all games goes to the office of Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis. In the first four games, forty per cent of the balance goes to the owners of the two contending clubs and the remaining sixty per cent is divided between the two world series contenders and the teams which finished second, third and fourth in each league.

The players' share is divided as follows:

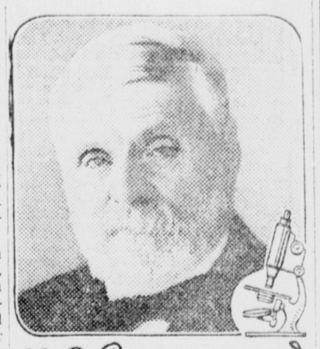

Seventy per cent of it goes to the world series contenders, three-fifths of it to the winner and two-fifths to the loser, the remaining thirty per cent of the players' share goes to the clubs finishing second, third and fourth in the ration of 50 per cent, 33 1-3 per cent and 16 2-3 per cent.

In all games after the first four, the magnates of the two world series clubs receive eighty-five per cent of the gross receipts.

YOUNGSTER PARADES

PARIS, Oct. 6—Gilbert Bettmans, Junior, only seven, was the youngest person in Ohio's delegation in the opening day American Legion parade. Gilbert's father, former Vice Mayor of Cincinnati and past Department Commander of Ohio, was naturally there too.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

Dr. W. B. Caldwell M D
AT AGE 83

When Dr. Caldwell started to practive medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constpation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE. —Adv.

THE LADY CALLED FATE

BY JOSEPHINE K. LITTLEJOHN

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ©1927 CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N

JOHN MOORE, New York business man, goes to Tucson, Ariz., on business, expecting to return to New York the next day. He meets a college associate, Philip Morton, who has business in Mexico. Both drink heavily of tequila and in the subsequent mixup in identity Moore finds himself in Mexico.

He has in his possession a portrait of a girl which had been Morton's. The girl, Ruth Henshaw, sends her ambassador, Ramon, to tell the supposed Morton that she will meet him at the church at Tubutama. She needs his help. He meets her, also Clench, an associate of her uncle's, and all go to the ranch.

John meets Manuel Lopez, Roderiguez and Barton Henshaw, the uncle. He tells them all that he is John Moore, not Paul Morton. They do not believe him, and proceed with their plans which involve the illegal importation of arms into Mexico.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE.

Out in the moonlit garden—where only the melancholy call of a little Mexican dove broke the lovely hush of the night—John Moore was waiting.

He waited impatiently. Having discovered, upon leaving the dining room, that Ruth Henshaw had disappeared for the night, he was impatient to be done with the night himself. In the morning he could see her again and tell her—what?

That her uncle, in spite of what he had told her, was very much involved in an illicit scheme of gun running? Not he. Neither would he, for worlds, let her guess that Roderiguez had boasted of her as his affianced bride nor that her uncle, either dead to shame or dumb with fear, had not denied the boast. He would have to tell her that he had failed to discover just what hold Roderiguez had upon her uncle. That it accounted for Mr. Henshaw's acquiescence in Roderiguez's designs upon Ruth, John was now convinced. But as to what exactly this hold was, he was still in ignorance.

Pacing up and down, now in the moonlight, now in the shadows of the pepper trees, he had pondered long on the relationship of the two men. Some disgrace in Mr. Henshaw's past might account for it. Or again Henshaw might have — but Henshaw was not the man whose actions, past or future, were of greatest concern to John Moore just now. There was Roderiguez.

With the Ambassador and Wong as his friends and Morton's two automatics safe in his pockets, John was at first inclined to hope for an open fight with Roderiguez. A few of the tricks he had learned in dull hours at Fort Sill might, after all, be useful. And it would be interesting to see if Roderiguez would, when pushed to extremities, drop his mask of open animosity and reveal that more sinister evilness which John had sensed at the dinner table. John could not remember ever having felt anything like it before. It certainly would be interesting to see—but there was the girl. If, by any chance, anything should happen to him and she should be left at the mercy of Roderiguez and Morton—

He turned from the thought abruptly. Where this girl was concerned he would take no chances. She should leave the ranch with him as early as possible in the morning. In Roderiguez's car if he could manage it, on horseback if he could not. In any case she should leave. He must see the Ambassador about that tonight.

And then he had glanced impatiently down the hill to where the candles on the table still glimmered through the dining room windows. Until that conference should be over he would not leave the garden. He confessed to himself that he was vaguely uneasy about what was transpiring down there. And yet as long as they believed him to be Morton—and here he grinned to himself—believed it in spite of his protestations to the contrary, their hands were tied. What could they do? Nothing. Let them plan. Tonight they could do nothing. Tomorrow he and the girl would be gone.

Having decided this he determined to wait no longer in carrying out his own design. His patience had come to an end. Keeping in the shadow except where forced to mount the terrace steps in bright moonlight he gained the porch of the hilltop house and walked quietly along it to his door. "I have to pass all of their doors," he mused. "And they will leave them open for air. I will climb up this end of the porch if I can do it quietly enough."

He found the Ambassador's rope neatly coiled in his clothes closet and carried it down the steps to the topmost terrace. "Luckily the swimming pool is not on my side," he thought. "I have plenty of shade trees over here. I'll just try climbing that porch right now."

His greatest difficulty was the shrubs, which grew thick against it. He endeavored to bend them noiselessly aside and slip through but his rope made this difficult. It was constantly catching somewhere. At length, however, he won through to the foundation wall of the porch. He blessed his luck when he found it to be built of rough stones. "With both hands free I could climb this without a sound. Maybe I can push the rope over the top—By Jove, I can just do it." He stood on tiptoe and edged the coil of rope onto the floor of the porch. It slid forward noiselessly on the smooth cement. And John with little difficulty followed it.

He now carried the rope down to the terrace again. There he climbed with one end of it some twenty feet above ground in the pepper tree nearest the wall and fastened it securely to the tree trunk. Then, descending, he found a garden bench and placed it against the wall in the deep shadow of the tree. By standing on this he was able to drop the rest of the rope over the wall and to ascertain that he could pull himself up to the top of it.

"No use waiting for those fellows any longer," he said to himself. "I am going over and see the Ambassador—now that I have a sure way of getting back. Same old story! All prepared to get in before I get out. Still— By Jove! If I hadn't done it last night—!" He pulled out the little army wrist watch which he carried nowadays in his pocket and looked at its illuminated dial. It was midnight. Just midnight. This time last night he had been playing poker in Tucson with Beechy and Towner and Long—and Morton was asleep in the corner. There had still been time for him to catch the El Paso train at one o'clock. The thought made him so weak that he sat down on the bench and trembled.

A little breeze blew softly through the pepper tree above him. The quivering festoons of leaves wafted apart, let a moonbeam fall on the gravel at his feet. A white patch of moonlight—John, gazing down at it, saw suddenly, that it was an arch of silver light in the dark shadows. The shadows became the walls of the belfry tower and the arch—against a blue sky—framed a girl with the moonlight glinting on her hair.

He started to his feet and turned toward the tower below in which his lady slept. He was no longer trembling; he was exultant. "No" he cried to himself, "I could not have taken that train. This was meant to be!"

There were the men. He saw them now. A group of black figures by the dining room door. He stood very still and watched them.

They were talking together. Now they turned staring up the hill.

"It is myself they are worrying about," grinned John to himself. "But they can't know I am here."

The group separated. One figure re-entered the house. "That's Henshaw," thought John. The other three were mounting the terrace steps.

Beside the swimming pool Clench stopped. "Damn it!" he exclaimed in loud exasperated tones. "That fellow has my watch."

"Your watch?" It was Roderiguez speaking now. "Who has it?"

"Moore. I gave it to him this afternoon when he went out for a walk."

"Get it in the morning."

"I sleep with it where I can see it easy in the night. I want I am going to get it now. It won't hurt him to wake up." They mounted the porch steps.

Answers to Correspondents
One Meal a Day

"How many calories in one ordinary yeast cake, and what is the effect of saccharin on the system? I take two grains of it a day. Of course, I am petersizing after a fashion, but I disobey you in a great many ways, for I take but one meal a day—no breakfast or lunch—but still I am losing satisfactorily. B."

First, let me say that you're not disobeying me by taking one meal a day if you prefer it that way, and find it agrees with you, B. I have told you to distribute your calories the way you like best, and if you want them all in one meal, hop to it!

When I was considerably younger I tried that one-meal-a-day stunt. We were living in a little country town and every morning we used to see how far we could go toward the post office, which was about a mile away, on a jog trot. We finally succeeded in going all the way. I was getting a lot of physical exercise, and I didn't know anything about calories then, and in the one meal I ate, I used to stack up a-plenty. However, I succeeded in getting rid of the accumulation I wanted to. After we moved from the country and I wasn't getting the long jog-trot exercises, I got another little attack of expansion and I again tried the one-meal stunt, eating as much as when I was getting the exercise. It didn't work this time.

But I don't think the one-meal-a-day plan is very good, B. We are advising so much bulky food now, in the vegetables and fruits, and at least two glasses of skim milk so that the full amount needed for the day would, if taken in one meal, distend the stomach.

A yeast cake is 20 C (ordinarily half an ounce). Yeast is high in vitamin B. I like the yeast extracts better and they are equally high in vitamin B and make delicious broths. One level teaspoon of the extract will make a good broth and counts not more than five calories. You could take this broth several times a day, if you felt hungry.

Saccharin is allowed to diabetics by some diabetic specialists up to two or three grains a day; others believe this amount may be harmful. It is a coal tar product, 300 to 500 times sweeter than sugar. Hadn't you better learn to like your liquids unsweetened?

Those who are in need of instructions on how to lose or gain weight may have our pamphlet on the subject by sending a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 10 cents in stamps, with request.

Causes of Eruptive Fevers

C.—You say that the eruptive fevers, such as measles, chickenpox, smallpox, scarlet fever, are all produced by different poisons which have accumulated in the body by the wrong habits of life.

No, not true, C. While we know that "wrong habits of life" do lower the resistance so that if one is exposed to eruptive fevers, he may be more susceptible, this is the secondary cause. The primary causes of these diseases are the particular germs which are acquired by the person so exposed, and if these germs happen to be virulent enough and in sufficient quantity, even a perfectly well person can get the disease they engender, just as the bullet will kill or disable a perfectly well person as quickly as a half-dead one.

One attack of some of these eruptive fevers confers immunity for life; that is, one never contracts them again, no matter what their mode of living is, even though they were nursing one very sick with it. If your theory were correct, this immunity would not develop.

J.—Send for our article on Chronic Joint Inflammation. Enclose a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

am L. Warner, vice-president Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., ion picture producers, died in Angeles, Wednesday. Death caused by pneumonia, follow- ing an attack of sinus trouble. Sam Warner, with his brothers, Harry, Jack and Abe, broke into the motion picture business twenty-three years ago when the industry was in its embryo state. Inspired by the sight of crowds visiting a Pittsburgh "Nickelodeon," Sam and Harry rented an old storehouse in Newcastle, Pa., rented chairs from an undertaker and opened their first house. They rented their films until they decided that buying them was a better proposition. Then they bought a trunk full of pictures for $500 and opened the industry's first distributor's exchange. Before long they were making $2,500 a week.

Forced out of business soon afterward by the General Film Company, Sam and Abe came to New York and formed their own producing company. Some time later they were offered the general managership of General Films at a big salary and a bonus if they wanted to quit the producing field. They turned down the offer. From this foundation the Warner Brothers Corporation has grown until the organization, capitalized at millions, has its own laboratories, studios on the western coast and also in the east. Several smaller companies have been absorbed, the latest being the old Vitagraph, the last of the old guard film makers to quit active production. Sam Warner and his brothers were the first producers to adopt the perfected speaking pictures, introducing the Vitaphone to New York and later to other cities, after the device had been produced by the American Telephone & Telegraph Company's laboratories in 1925.
